However, the composition and revenue generated from these clients might change as we continue to add new clients in normal course of business. This helps us in providing better value to each customer thereby increasing our engagement with our new and existing customer base that presents a substantial opportunity for growth.

The fund requirement and deployment mentioned in the Objects of this Issue have not been appraised by any bank or financial institution.

We intend to use entire fresh Issue Proceeds towards working capital needs, to meet the issue expenses and General Corporate Purposes. We intend to deploy the Net Issue Proceeds in financial year 2013-14 and such deployment is based on certain assumptions and strategy which our Company believes to implement in future.

The funds raised from the fresh Issue may remain idle on account of change in assumptions, market conditions, strategy of our Company, etc. For further details on the use of the Issue Proceeds, please refer to chapter titled "Objects of the Issue" beginning on page 80 of this Draft Prospectus.

The deployment of funds for the purposes described above is at the discretion of our Company's Board of Directors. A successful assertion of one or more large claims against us could adversely affect the results of our operations.

23. Our future funds requirements, in the form of fresh issue of capital or securities and/or loans taken by us, may be prejudicial to the interest of the shareholders depending upon the terms on which they are eventually raised.

We may require additional capital from time to time depending on our business needs. Any fresh issue of shares or convertible securities would dilute the shareholding of the existing shareholders and such issuance may be done on terms and conditions, which may not be favorable to the then existing shareholders. If such funds are raised in the form of loans or debt, then it may substantially increase our interest burden and decrease our cash flows, thus prejudicially affecting our profitability and ability to pay dividends to our shareholders.

24. Any future equity offerings may lead to dilution of your shareholding in our Company.

Investors in this Issue may experience dilution of their shareholding to the extent that our Company makes future equity or convertible offerings. Further, any perception or belief that further issues might occur may adversely affect the trading price of our Equity Shares.

25. Our success depends largely upon the services of our Promoters and other Key Managerial Personnel and our ability to retain them. Our inability to attract and retain key managerial personnel may adversely affect the operations of our Company.

Our Company and our Promoters have over the years built relations with suppliers, clients and other persons who are connected with our business. Further, our Key Managerial Personal also possesses the requisite domain knowledge to provide efficient services to our clients. Accordingly, our Company's performance is dependent upon the services of our Promoters and other Key Managerial Personnel. Our future performance will, therefore, depend upon the continued services of these persons. It is possible that we may lose our skilled and trained staff to our competitors and high attrition rates in particular, could result in a loss of domain and process knowledge. Demand for key managerial personnel in the industry is intense and our inability to attract and retain Key Managerial Personnel may affect the operations of our Company.

26. We may not be able to sustain effective implementation of our business and growth strategy.

The success of our business will depend greatly on our ability to effectively implement our business and growth strategy. Whilst we have generally been successful in execution of our business strategy in the past, there can be no assurance that we will be able to execute our strategy on time and within the estimated budget in the future. If we are unable to implement our business and growth strategy, this may have an adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

27. We face competition from existing and new entrants, which in turn can adversely affect our margins.

As the market is expanding, smaller players are getting larger orders which will enable them to compete with existing large players, which will going forward increase competition. Presently, there are very few players competing for large orders, however over next couple of years, once various small producers start building up prequalification's, the competition in this space could intensify. This could result in margins coming under pressure.

28. Due to the absence of any written agreements with our vendors/suppliers, we are exposed to risks due to supply obligations not clearly specified in writing.

We do not have written agreements with our vendors/suppliers and operate on a purchase order system. Due to the absence of any formal contract with our vendors/suppliers, we are exposed to the risks of irregular supplies or no supplies at all and delayed supplies which would materially affect our results of operations.

29. We could be harmed by employee misconduct or errors that are difficult to detect and any such incidences could adversely affect our financial condition, results of operations and reputation.

Employee misconduct or errors could expose us to business risks or losses, including regulatory sanctions and serious harm to our reputation. There can be no assurance that we will be able to detect or deter such misconduct. Moreover, the precautions we take to prevent and detect such activity may not be effective in all cases. Our employees and agents may also commit errors that could subject us to claims and proceedings for alleged negligence, as well as regulatory actions on account of which our business, financial condition, results of operations and goodwill could be adversely affected.

30. Changes in government regulations or their implementation could disrupt our operations and adversely affect our business and results of operations.

Our business and industry is regulated by different laws, rules and regulations framed by the Central and State Government. These regulations can be amended/ changed on a short notice at the discretion of the Government. If we fail to comply with all applicable regulations or if the regulations governing our business or their implementation change adversely, we may incur increased costs or be subject to penalties, which could disrupt our operations and adversely affect our business and results of operations.

31. We have certain contingent liabilities, which have not been provided for. Crystallization of any of these contingent liabilities may adversely affect our financial condition.

The Contingent liabilities of our Company not provided for, as certified by the our Board of Directors is as under:

(Rs. In Lakhs)

Sr. No.	Nature of Liability	Amount as on June 30, 2013
1.	Outstanding Bank Guarantees	1,800

In the event any of these contingent liabilities gets crystallized, our financial condition may be adversely affected.

32. Our ability to pay dividends will depend upon future earnings, financial condition, cash flows, working capital requirements, capital expenditures and other factors.

Till date our Company has not paid any dividend. The amount of our future dividend payments, if any, will depend upon various factors such as our future earnings, financial condition, cash flows, working capital requirements, capital expenditures and other factors. There can be no assurance that we shall have distributable funds or that we will declare dividends in the future. Additionally, the terms of any financing we obtain in the future, may contain restrictive covenants which may also affect some of the rights of our shareholders, including the payment of the dividend.

33. Our revenues and expenses are difficult to predict and can vary significantly from period to period, which could cause our share price to decline

The economic environment, pricing pressure and decreased employee utilization rates could negatively impact our revenues and operating results. In the event that the Government of India or the government of another country changes its tax policies in a manner that is adverse to us, our tax expense may materially increase, reducing our profitability.

- II. Risk related to this Issue and our Equity Shares
- 34. Sale of Equity Shares by our Promoters or other significant shareholder(s) may adversely affect the trading price of the Equity Shares.

Any instance of disinvestments of equity shares by our Promoters or by other significant shareholder(s) may significantly affect the trading price of our Equity Shares. Further, our market price may also be adversely affected even if there is a perception or belief that such sales of Equity Shares might occur.

35. There are restrictions on daily movements in the price of the Equity Shares, which may adversely affect a shareholder's ability to sell, or the price at which it can sell, Equity Shares at a particular point in time.

Once listed, we would be subject to circuit breakers imposed by all stock exchanges in India, which does not allow transactions beyond specified increases or decreases in the price of the Equity Shares. This circuit breaker operates independently of the index-based market-wide circuit breakers generally imposed by SEBI on Indian stock exchanges. The percentage limit on circuit breakers is set by the stock exchanges based on the historical volatility in the price and trading volume of the Equity Shares. The stock exchanges do not inform us of the percentage limit of the circuit breaker in effect from time to time, and may change it without our knowledge. This circuit breaker limits the upward and downward movements in the price of the Equity Shares. As a result of this circuit breaker, no assurance may be given regarding your ability to sell your Equity Shares or the price at which you may be able to sell your Equity Shares at any particular time.

36. After this Issue, the price of the Equity Shares may be highly volatile, or an active trading market for the Equity Shares may not develop.

41. Financial instability in Indian financial markets could adversely affect our company's results of operations and financial condition.

In this globalised world, the Indian economy and financial markets are significantly influenced by worldwide economic, financial and market conditions. Any financial turmoil, say in the United States of America, Europe, China or other emerging economies, may have a negative impact on the Indian economy. Although economic conditions differ in each country, investors' reactions to any significant developments in one country can have adverse effects on the financial and market conditions in other countries. A loss in investor confidence in the financial systems, particularly in other emerging markets, may cause increased volatility in Indian financial markets. Indian financial markets have also experienced the contagion effect of the global financial turmoil. Any prolonged financial crisis may have an adverse impact on the Indian economy, thereby resulting in a material and adverse effect on our Company's business, operations, financial condition, profitability and price of its Shares. Stock exchanges in India have in the past experienced substantial fluctuations in the prices of listed securities.

42. Foreign investors are subject to foreign investment restrictions under Indian law that limits our ability to attract foreign investors, which may adversely impact the market price of the Equity Shares.

Under the foreign exchange regulations currently in force in India, transfers of shares between nonresidents and residents are freely permitted (subject to certain exceptions) if they comply with the pricing guidelines and reporting requirements specified by the RBI. If the transfer of shares, which are sought to be transferred, is not in compliance with such pricing guidelines or reporting requirements or fall under any of the exceptions referred to above, then the prior approval of the RBI will be required. These factors include interest rates, rates of economic growth, fiscal and monetary policies of governments, inflation, deflation, foreign exchange fluctuations, consumer credit availability, fluctuations in commodities markets, consumer debt levels, unemployment trends and other matters that influence consumer confidence, spending and tourism. Increasing volatility in financial markets may cause these factors to change with a greater degree of frequency and magnitude, which may negatively affect our stock prices.

44. Terrorist attacks, civil unrests and other acts of violence or war involving India or other countries could adversely affect the financial markets, our business, financial condition and the price of our Equity Shares.

Any major hostilities involving India or other acts of violence, including civil unrest or similar events that are beyond our control, could have a material adverse effect on India's economy and our business. Incidents such as the Mumbai terrorist attacks, other incidents such as those in US, Indonesia, Madrid and London, and other acts of violence may adversely affect the Indian stock markets where our Equity Shares will trade as well the global equity markets generally. Such acts could negatively impact business sentiment as well as trade between countries, which could adversely affect our Company's business and profitability. Additionally, such events could have a material adverse effect on the market for securities of Indian companies, including the Equity Shares.

45. Taxes and other levies imposed by the Government of India or other State Governments, as well as other financial policies and regulations, may have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

Taxes and other levies imposed by the Central or State Governments in India that affect our industry include sales tax, income tax and other taxes, duties or surcharges introduced on a permanent or temporary basis from time to time. Imposition of any other taxes by the Central and the State Governments may adversely affect our results of operations.

Since its launch till the date of this Draft Prospectus, 41 (Forty One) companies have been listed on BSE SME Platform and another 3 (three) companies listed on NSE SME Platform – Emerge. Investors may still not have strong confidence for initial subscription and / or secondary market trading in SME scrip. Moreover, it is proposed to list the Equity Shares of our Company only on BSE SME Platform. Investment in this Issue, thus, could be riskier.

48. Any downgrading of India's sovereign rating by an independent agency may harm our ability to raise financing.

Any adverse revisions to India's credit ratings for domestic and international debt by international rating agencies may adversely impact our ability to raise additional financing, and the interest rates and other commercial terms at which such additional financing may be available. This could have an adverse effect on our business and future financial performance, our ability to obtain financing for capital expenditures and the trading price of our Equity Shares.

49. Natural calamities could have a negative impact on the Indian economy and cause Our Company's business to suffer.

India has experienced natural calamities such as earthquakes, tsunami, and floods in recent years. The extent and severity of these natural disasters determine their impact on the Indian economy. SECTION - III INTRODUCTION

SUMMARY OF OUR INDUSTRY

Overview of Indian Economy:

India, the world's largest democracy in terms of population (1,220 million people) had a GDP on a purchasing power parity basis of approximately INR 58 trillion in June 2013. This makes it the fourth largest economy in the world after the United States of America, European Union and China. The outlook for India's medium-term growth is positive due to a young population and corresponding low dependency ratio, healthy savings and investment rates, and increasing integration into the global economy. (Source: "Fact Book" from Department of Economic Affairs, Ministry of Finance, Government of India, June 2012)

The Indian economy's performance in FY 2012-13 and Q1 FY 2013-14 was marked by slowing growth and widening fiscal and current account gaps. The slowdown was partly rooted in external causes, while domestic causes like higher inflation, supply side constrains and policy inaction also put a drag on the economy. With GDP growth of 4.4% in Q1 FY13-14, the economy grew at its slowest quarterly pace in four years with mining, manufacturing and construction dragging growth down. Weakening of both domestic and external demand contributed further to the slowdown. Post 2008 crisis, Reserve Bank in response to the high inflation persisted with tightening till October 2011 and paused before easing in April 2012. The inflation has eased in last year though slowing growth, and widening twin deficits on the back of policy inaction along with global flight to safety amidst a deepening euro area crisis put pressures on the financial markets and the exchange rate during the year. As a result, Rupee has depreciated significantly in last one year further widening India's macro-economic problems.

The Indian economy was one of the fastest growing economies in the post-crisis period. During 2012-13, however, there was continuous deceleration of economic activity in each of the four quarters which pushed the expansion of the economy to below potential and the economic growth hit 4.4% in Q1 of FY 2013-14.

Growth slowed down due to multiple factors. One of the reasons was the persistence of inflation at a much higher level than the threshold for two successive years. Persistent and high inflation necessitated continued tightening of monetary policy. Even after reducing inflation in recent time, widening twin deficits has prevented RBI to pursue aggressive monetary easing. Recent research suggests that real interest (lending) rates explain only about one-third of GDP growth.

This suggests that non-monetary factors played a bigger role and accentuated the slowdown to beyond what was anticipated while tightening the monetary policy. Recession in the euro area and general uncertainty regarding the global economic climate chipped the external demand as well. Domestic policy uncertainties, governance and corruption issues amidst lack of political consensus on reforms led to a sharp deterioration in investment climate. Structural constraints emerged in key investment drivers in the infrastructure space – telecom, roads and power – which increased the disinflationary costs. High inflation kept aggregate demand and business confidence subdued.

Overview of Wire and Cable Industry:

Wire and cables play an important part in our surrounding. Cables are one of the basic inputs and therefore they are very critical for the entire industrial sector. Whether it is steel ropes, cables, springs or screws, the products of the wire, cable and wire–processing industry are practically everywhere. They may look unassuming, but they are indispensable when it comes to the transmission of electric power or electronic data, and they assure that mechanical systems function well. The technological and economic development of a society is closely connected with the wire and cable industry and its suppliers.

Wires and Cables, be they made of fibre, optics, iron or non-ferrous metals (copper, zinc, aluminum), they play a decisive role in almost all areas of industrial and daily life. Electrical wires and cable Industry is one of the earliest industries established in the country in the field of electrical products.

(Source: Annual Report of Department of Industrial Policy and Promotion of Ministry of Commerce and Industry 2010-11)

Nature of Indian Cable Industry:

The Indian cable industry is highly fragmented with large number of cable producers. Many of these companies are small-scale cable producers, the smallest of which are family-run operations which use the most basic production equipments. There has been very limited consolidation amongst the major players in the industry. The tendency of cable companies to grow organically, rather than by acquisition of competitors, means that no dominant groups have emerged in the industry. In mobile towers, feeders are the cables used as a high-frequency transmission medium to carry high-frequency or broadband signals between antenna and its base station. These feeder cables are vital for site's optimal performance.

Cables are the necessity of every basic infrastructure. Be it housing, telecom or information technology, cables form the background of all the core industries. The industry has a derived demand and caters to the high growth sector of the economy. Demand for cables comes from the following sectors:

- Power Sector
- Telecom Sector
- Industrial Sector
- Others (Petrochemical / Refinery, Automobile, Railway)

Electrical wires and cables market is growing at a steady pace as the government is investing heavily in infrastructure development. Increase in capacity of the existing power plants and commissioning of the new ones have resulted in higher demand for electric wires and cables. Although currently there is a drag on the infrastructure and power sectors, with the Government taking reformed steps, the revival is in sight.

(Source: http://www.reportlinker.com/p0765587-summary/Electric-Wires-and-Cable-Market-in-India.html)

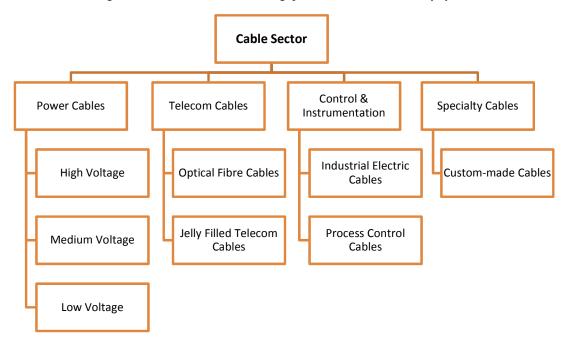

Wire and cable industry comprises 40% of the entire electrical industry, which is expected to double in size over the next five years. The industry is growing at a CAGR of 15% as a result of growth in the power and infrastructure segments. It is expected to grow at similar rate for the next five years. The wire and cable industry will eventually focus on supplying cables for specific applications pertaining to the industry needs. India has a lot of potential in the mining, power, oil and gas, metro railways, cement industry, steel industry and other sectors. Different kinds of cables like extra high voltage cables, elastomer cables, etc, are now being used for special applications such as mining/oil sector, shipbuilding /crane cables/elevator cables, cables for solar power plants, to harness power for new generation motor vehicles, windmill solutions, security systems and other types of data cables.

Classification of Cables:

Cable market is largely divided into two types of users: Industrial and Domestic. Amongst the industrial users, wires and cables mainly find application in three sectors: power, industrial and telecommunication. Industrial cables include control and instrumentation, LT cables, HT cables and specialty cables whereas telecom cables are classified as high capacity cables (Optical Fibre Cables -OFCS) and Low capacity cables (Jelly Filled Telecom Cables - JFTCS). Control cables are used for control circuits in power plants and other similar industrial – electrical installations and signaling network of Railways. Instrumentation cable offers total interference free data transfer and is ideal for use as a signal and control cable in measuring, process- control and security systems.

Armoured Cable

Armoured cables are generally used for underground wiring. Armoured cables are power cables which comprises of two or more electric conductors which are enveloped in a protective sheath. The cable derives its name from its protective nature and allows better electric transmission with lesser risks involved. The significance of armoured cables lies in its construction. Each and every component plays a significant role in energy transmission. The conducting wires which are mostly made of copper offer superior conductivity. The cross-linked polyethylene insulation enveloped in wires allows better energy transmission by preventing external alterations.

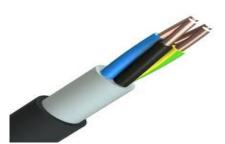

Armoured cables are more flexible than their counter-parts and this makes them the first choice for industrial purposes. The installation bends and twists involved in installation do not hamper its external shape and energy transmission. The mechanism involved in these cables allows better flexibility thus, making it durable for large electric transmission. The chromium content in the steel armour protects the cable from external harsh environment when exposed to it. The heat-resistant ability of armoured cables should be attributed towards the PVC bedding and the external layer of steel armour. The external protection in conductors allows better transmission of energy under high pressure.

Unarmoured Cable

Unarmoured electrical cable has no protective flexible steel covering, its covering is made of plastic.

Flexible & House Wires

Flexible cables or 'continuous-flex' cables are cables specially designed to cope with the tight bending radii and physical stress associated with moving applications, such as inside cable carriers. Due to increasing demands within the field of automation technology in the 1980s, such as increasing loads, moving cables guided inside cable carriers often failed, although the cable carriers themselves did not. In extreme cases, failures caused by "corkscrews" and core ruptures brought entire production lines to a standstill at high cost. As a result, highly flexible cables were developed with unique characteristics to differentiate them from standard designs.

These are sometimes called "chain-suitable," "high-flex," or "continuous flex" cables. A higher level of flexibility means the service life of a cable inside a cable carrier can be greatly extended. A normal cable typically manages 50,000 cycles but a dynamic cable can complete between one and three million cycles. Flexible cables can be divided into two types: those with conductors stranded in layers inside the cable and those that have bundled or braided conductors. Flexible cables manufactured by us include:

Submersible Cable

Submersible cables help transmit energy in submerged devices. Fully submersible, these cables with their tough robust insulation allows better energy transmission and helps avoid accidents. Primarily used to supply energy to submersible pumps, these cables can also be used to extract water from deep underground reservoirs. However, there are various kinds of submersible cables and each differs from the other in terms of performance and function. The specification of this variety of cable depends on its working environment, the electrical load and the type of external liquid it comes in contact with. Ideally, the cable used for pumping underground water should be free from harmful chemicals and provide resistance to abrasion.

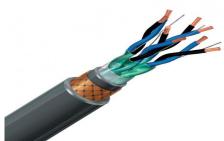

Most submersible wires are enveloped in durable rubber and plastic compounds that are flexible and provide optimum protection against the liquid it is surrounded by. Designed for excellent performance even under fully submerged condition, these cables withstand the impact of corrosive liquids and abrasion. Used in the aquarium filtration system, these cables are also used for illuminating floodlights. It's the ideal replacement to ordinary cables in construction sites which require greater protection and resistance to water. Submersible Cables manufactured by us include:

Control & Instrumentation Cable

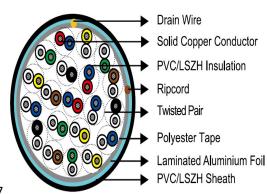

Instrumentation cables have very diverse applications. These cables are designed for use in communication and instrumentation application in and around process industries like oil exploration, cement, paper, steel, power generation and others. Cable made to specific rigid requirements are utilized in process controls, transmission of signals, computers, control systems and monitor networks as well as in intrinsically safe systems in hazardous areas like petrochemical plants and thermal power plants

The technological and economic development of a society is closely connected with the wire and cable industry and its suppliers. Since basically all areas of life rely on wire and the products that are manufactured from wire, and while their property potential is seemingly not yet exhausted, the wire, cable and wire processing industry is constantly faced with new challenges. In order to meeting these challenges, it requires machinery, tooling, accessories, ancillary equipment and services that are as efficient as possible in their utilization of energy and raw materials, and which produce as little waste as possible during startup and production.

Telephone Switch Board Cables

Telephone Switch Board Cables are used for indoor Telephones, Telephone Exch anges, Satellite Telecommunication Systems, Industrial Plant Communication Systems, EPBAX Systems, Closed Circuit Security Systems, In-House Telephone wiring and various other equipments involving telephones. These Cables are generally made as per TEC

Specification No. G/WIR-06/02 or as per customer specification.

Flame Retardant-Low Smoke & Halogen Cables

Flame Retardant-Low Smoke & Halogen Cables are recommended for places where human concentration is high like shopping malls, buildings, offices, hospitals, etc. These cables are made up of specially formulated PVC Polymers which restrict toxic gases and smoke, and doesn't allow fire to spread. We also manufacture Zero-Halogen Flame Retardant Cables which are manufactured using special polymeric compounds that are Halogen-free which should be the first choice for places like shopping malls, offices, cinema halls etc. It has a high oxygen index, thus offering superior protection against fire. Choking being the main reason of death during fire, we have designed our wires with technology that releases less toxic gas because they are halogen free. Thus reducing the chances of choking during fire. Being halogen free makes them eco friendly as well. As everyday, regular wires releases huge amounts of hazardous halogen gases, depleting the earth's ozone layer.

SECTION - IV ABOUT THE COMPANY

OUR INDUSTRY

Overview of Indian Economy:

India, the world's largest democracy in terms of population (1,220 million people) had a GDP on a purchasing power parity basis of approximately INR 58 trillion in June 2013. This makes it the fourth largest economy in the world after the United States of America, European Union and China. The outlook for India's medium-term growth is positive due to a young population and corresponding low dependency ratio, healthy savings and investment rates, and increasing integration into the global economy. (Source: CIA World Fact book as on April 22, 2013 & http://eaindustry.nic.in/Key_Economic_Indicators/Key_Economic_Indicators.pdf) (Source: https://www.cia.gov/library/publications/the-world-factbook/geos/in.html)

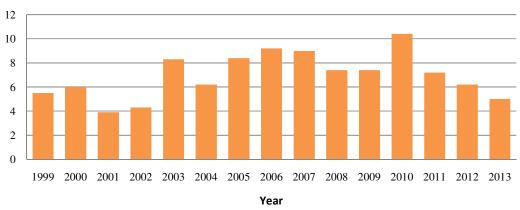

(Source: "Fact Book" from Department of Economic Affairs, Ministry of Finance, Government of India, June 2012)

The Indian economy's performance in FY 2012-13 and Q1 FY 2013-14 was marked by slowing growth and widening fiscal and current account gaps. The slowdown was partly rooted in external causes, while domestic causes like higher inflation, supply side constrains and policy inaction also put a drag on the economy. With GDP growth of 4.4% in Q1 FY13-14, the economy grew at its slowest quarterly pace in four years with mining, manufacturing and construction dragging growth down. Weakening of both domestic and external demand contributed further to the slowdown. Post 2008 crisis, Reserve Bank in response to the high inflation persisted with tightening till October 2011 and paused before easing in April 2012. The inflation has eased in last year though slowing growth, and widening twin deficits on the back of policy inaction along with global flight to safety amidst a deepening euro area crisis put pressures on the financial markets and the exchange rate during the year. As a result, Rupee has depreciated significantly in last one year further widening India's macroeconomic problems.

(Source: http://www.indexmundi.com/g/g.aspx?v=66&c=in&l=en)

The Indian economy was one of the fastest growing economies in the post-crisis period. During 2012-13, however, there was continuous deceleration of economic activity in each of the four quarters which pushed the expansion of the economy to below potential and the economic growth hit 4.4% in Q1 of FY 2013-14. Growth slowed down due to multiple factors. One of the reasons was the persistence of inflation at a much higher level than the threshold for two successive years. Persistent and high inflation necessitated continued tightening of monetary policy. Even after reducing inflation in recent time, widening twin deficits has prevented RBI to pursue aggressive monetary easing. Recent research suggests that real interest (lending) rates explain only about one-third of GDP growth.

This suggests that non-monetary factors played a bigger role and accentuated the slowdown to beyond what was anticipated while tightening the monetary policy. Recession in the euro area and general uncertainty regarding the global economic climate chipped the external demand as well. Domestic policy uncertainties, governance and corruption issues amidst lack of political consensus on reforms led to a sharp deterioration in investment climate. Structural constraints emerged in key investment drivers in the infrastructure space – telecom, roads and power – which increased the disinflationary costs. High inflation kept aggregate demand and business confidence subdued.

Wire and cables play an important part in our surrounding. Cables are one of the basic inputs and therefore they are very critical for the entire industrial sector. Whether it is steel ropes, cables, springs or screws, the products of the wire, cable and wire–processing industry are practically everywhere. They may look unassuming, but they are indispensable when it comes to the transmission of electric power or electronic data, and they assure that mechanical systems function well. The technological and economic development of a society is closely connected with the wire and cable industry and its suppliers.

Wires and Cables, be they made of fibre, optics, iron or non-ferrous metals (copper, zinc, aluminum), they play a decisive role in almost all areas of industrial and daily life. Electrical wires and cable Industry is one of the earliest industries established in the country in the field of electrical products.

Nature of Indian Cable Industry:

The Indian cable industry is highly fragmented with large number of cable producers. Many of these companies are small-scale cable producers, the smallest of which are family-run operations which use the most basic production equipments. There has been very limited consolidation amongst the major players in the industry. The tendency of cable companies to grow organically, rather than by acquisition of competitors, means that no dominant groups have emerged in the industry. In mobile towers, feeders are the cables used as a high-frequency transmission medium to carry high-frequency or broadband signals between antenna and its base station. These feeder cables are vital for site's optimal performance.

Cables are the necessity of every basic infrastructure. Be it housing, telecom or information technology, cables form the background of all the core industries. The industry has a derived demand and caters to the high growth sector of the economy. Demand for cables comes from the following sectors:

- Power Sector
- Telecom Sector
- Industrial Sector
- Others (Petrochemical / Refinery, Automobile, Railway)

Electrical wires and cables market is growing at a steady pace as the government is investing heavily in infrastructure development. Increase in capacity of the existing power plants and commissioning of the new ones have resulted in higher demand for electric wires and cables. Although currently there is a drag on the infrastructure and power sectors, with the Government taking reformed steps, the revival is in sight.

(Source: http://www.reportlinker.com/p0765587-summary/Electric-Wires-and-Cable-Market-in-India.html)

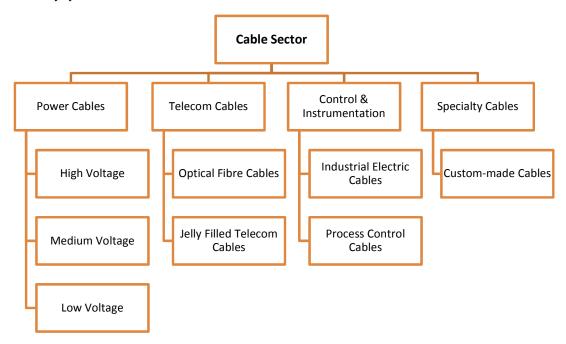

Wire and cable industry comprises 40% of the entire electrical industry, which is expected to double in size over the next five years. The industry is growing at a CAGR of 15% as a result of growth in the power and infrastructure segments. It is expected to grow at similar rate for the next five years. The wire and cable industry will eventually focus on supplying cables for specific applications pertaining to the industry needs. India has a lot of potential in the mining, power, oil and gas, metro railways, cement industry, steel industry and other sectors. Different kinds of cables like extra high voltage cables, elastomer cables, etc, are now being used for special applications such as mining/oil sector, shipbuilding /crane cables/elevator cables, cables for solar power plants, to harness power for new generation motor vehicles, windmill solutions, security systems and other types of data cables.

Classification of Cables:

Cable market is largely divided into two types of users: Industrial and Domestic. Amongst the industrial users, wires and cables mainly find application in three sectors: power, industrial and telecommunication. Industrial cables include control and instrumentation, LT cables, HT cables and specialty cables whereas telecom cables are classified as high capacity cables (Optical Fibre Cables -OFCS) and Low capacity cables (Jelly Filled Telecom Cables - JFTCS). Control cables are used for control circuits in power plants and other similar industrial – electrical installations and signaling network of Railways. Instrumentation cable offers total interference free data transfer and is ideal for use as a signal and control cable in measuring, process- control and security systems.

Demand Drivers of Wire & Cable Industry:

Cables are the necessity of every basic infrastructure. Be it housing, telecom or information technology, cables form the background of all the core industries. The industry has a derived demand and caters to the high growth sector of the economy. Demand for wires and cables come from the following sectors:

- 1. Power Sector
- 2. Telecom Sector
- 3. Industrial Sector
- 4. Others

Power Sector

Power sector is the largest consumer of cables in India. The drivers include the huge investments made by various private companies in power sector as well as the increasing budget allocation by the government on the power sector.

Since its structured growth post Independence, Indian power sector has made substantial progress both in terms of enhancing power generation and in making available power to widely distributed geographical boundaries. Indicators of installed capacity and capacity utilization throw light on the state of preparedness of the country for generation of the energy it requires and the quality or efficiency of the technology used in the generation, respectively. The dynamics of these indicators prompts the planners and policy makers to take appropriate steps for improvement. The total installed capacity for electricity generation in the country has increased from 16,271 MW as on 31.03.1971 to 225,793 MW as on 31.03.2013, registering a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 6.4%

(Source: Energy Statistics 2012, Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation, Government of India)

Power Generation:

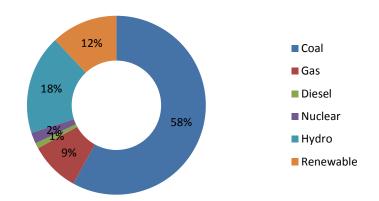

India's annual electricity generation capacity has increased in last 20 years by about 130 GW, from about 66 GW in 1991 to over 100 GW in 2001, to over 199 GW in 2012. India's Power Finance Corporation Limited projects that current and approved electricity capacity addition projects in India are expected to add about 100 GW of installed capacity between 2012 and 2017. This growth makes India one the fastest growing markets for electricity infrastructure equipment. India's installed capacity growth rates are still less than those achieved by China, and short of capacity needed to ensure universal availability of electricity throughout India by 2017.

State-owned and privately owned companies are significant players in India's electricity sector, with the private sector growing at a faster rate. India's central government and state governments jointly regulate electricity sector in India.

Power Generation by sector in FY13:

The electricity generation increased from about 5.1 Billion kwh to 877 Billion kwh in 2011-12. The per capita consumption of electricity in the country also increased from 15 kWh in 1950 to about 814 kWh in 2011 which is only 24% of the world's per capita consumption.

Power Transmission:

In India transmission business has a monopolistic model where transmission sector The Central Transmission Utility (CTU) and State Transmission Utility (STU) have the key responsibility of network planning and development. The private players have a very negligible presence. It is only during 11 plan period the Inter-state transmission sector was opened up for private sector participation through joint venture with Powergrid and through selection of Transmission System Provider through competitive bidding. Moreover, open access in transmission has been introduced to promote competition amongst the generating companies who can now sell to different distribution licensees across the country.

Plan-wise Growth of Transmission Lines in the Country:

Power Distribution:

Distribution provides the crucial last mile connectivity in the electricity sector. What makes it important is the fact that it is the revenue generating link of the value chain. Moreover, unlike the other two sectors – generation and transmission, the distribution consumers are varied, numerous and disparate.

In the four years from 2007-08 to 2011-12, the overall unit cost of supply increased by 21%. Maximum increase was in the interest payments (65%), followed by increase in establishment and administration expenses (24%), power purchase (21%) and depreciation (21%).

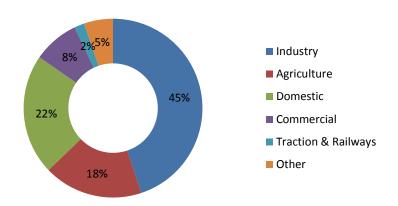

Though the average tariff has increased in the past few years, the rise has not been commensurate with the increase in the cost of supply. As a result, the gap between the cost of supply and the average tariff has been widening over the years. The gap has increased from 76 paise/kWh in 1998-99 to 145 paise/kWh in 2009-10. (Source: www.indianpowersector.com)

Power Consumption:

The estimated electricity consumption increased from 43,724 GWh during 1970-71 to 6,94,392 GWh during 2010-11, showing a CAGR of 6.98%. The increase in electricity consumption is 13.34% from 2009-10 (6,12,645 GWh) to 2010-11 (6,94,392 GWh). Of the total electricity sales in 2013, industry sector accounted for the largest share (44.87%), followed by domestic (21.79%), agriculture (17.95%) and commercial sector (8.33%). However, it is seen that electricity consumption in domestic sector and agriculture sector has increased at a much faster pace compared to other sectors during 1970-71.

Power Consumption by Sector in FY13:

Per-capita Electricity Consumption during a year is computed as the ratio of the estimate of total energy consumption during the year to the estimated mid-year population of that year. Per capita electricity consumption in India in 2010-11 was 819 kilowatt hour (kWh), less than one-fourth the global average of 2739 kWh representing enormous potential for growth.

Demand Trends:

The demand for power is expected to grow at a CAGR of approximately 7.5 per cent during the 12th Five Year plan from 9,68,658 Gwh in FY12 to 13,95,065 Gwh in FY17, whereas peak load requirement is expected to grow at a CAGR of 7.4 per cent. In view of projected increase in demand, the government has already initiated various power projects. It also plans a capacity addition of approximately 100 GW, of which 28 GW will come from projects started in the 11th plan. However, the primary problems faced by the sector include the depleting natural reserves of coal and natural gas, transmission losses and AT&C losses. Consequently, the focus of the Planning Commission during the 12th and 13th plans lies in conventional sources, such as hydro and nuclear energy, as well as renewable sources, such as solar and wind energy. Therefore, the power sector in India plans to capitalize on the hydropower capacity in the North Eastern region, and is in the process of obtaining clearance to speed up the development. An addition to the generation capacity of nuclear and gas based power plants is also expected during the 12th plan. In particular, about 22,000 MW of untapped capacity has been identified in the hydropower segment that is likely to benefit the sector during the 12th and 13th plans, whereas an increase of 2,800 MW is expected in nuclear energy generation. All these trends point towards growing market for the wire and cable industry.

Investments:

Total investments for the Indian power sector, as projected by the Working Group on Power for the 12th Five Year plan, stand at Rs 13,72,580 crore (US$ 253.6 billion). To this effect, the government has focused on raising funds through measures, such as credit enhancement schemes and infrastructure debt fund. A major part of capital required for financing power projects is expected to come from commercial banks, public financial institutions, infrastructure/power finance institutions, international investments, bilateral credit and equity markets.

The investments in power generation has to be supported with equal if not more investments to build a robust transmission and distribution (T&D) network, which would lead to a demand for overhead power conductors. (Source: http://www.metalworld.co.in/newsletter/july12/infocus0712.pdf)

Power Sector Initiatives:

Several initiatives taken by Government to boost the power sector:

- Electricity Act 2003: The Act eliminates the licensing for electricity generation projects, increase competition through international competitive bidding and demarcation of transmission as a separate activity
- National Tariff Policy 2006: The Policy's objective is to provide adequate return on investment to companies engaged in power generation, transmission and distribution. It assures electricity to consumers at reasonable and competitive rates.
- Ultra Mega Power Projects (UMPPs): The launch of UMPP scheme was through tariff-based competitive bidding. It aims to enhance investor confidence through ease of land possession, provision of fuel, water and necessary clearances.

- Restructured Accelerated Power Development and Reform Programme (R-APDRP): R-APDRP was launched by Ministry of Power with the purpose of reducing AT&T losses up to 15% by up-gradation of transmission and distribution network.
- Fuel Supply Agreement: Agreement formed with Coal India Ltd to ensure the availability of coal for power companies over the long term.
- Generation-based incentives: Government to reintroduce 'Generation-based incentives' in the Budget FY14 for wind power projects to boost capacity addition in the sector.
- Liberalized FDI Policy: During FY13, the Government liberalized FDI Policy for Power Trading Exchanges and allowed upto 49%
- Low-Interest Funds: Low-interest-bearing funds to be provided from National Clean Energy Fund (NCEF) to Indian Renewable Energy Development Agency Ltd (IREDA) for on-lending to viable renewable energy projects
- Growing Investments: The total plan outlay for the power sector for FY14 is estimated at USD1.6 billion, a significant 27% higher than the revised estimate of USD1.5 billion for FY13. While the proportion of plan expenditure in the total outlay was 59% in FY13, that for FY14 is a whopping 96%
- Elimination of Customs Duty: The government has fully exempted basic customs duty and a concessional countervailing duty (CVD) of 1% to steam coal for a period of two years till FY14
- External Commercial Borrowings: Power companies can utilize 40% of fresh ECBs raised towards refinancing of Rupee loan availed from domestic banks under the approval route. Also, the withholding tax on ECBs has been reduced to 5% from 20% till FY15
- Higher Limit for Tax Free Bonds: The limit for tax-free bonds for the power sector has been increased to USD2 billion from USD1 billion. The government has also extended the tax holiday by one year; this allows power producers to claim tax exemption up to 10 years
- Private Sector Partnership (PPP) policy framework to be devised with Coal India Ltd to increase coal production and to reduce dependency on imported coal.

(Source: Power – August 2013, India Brand Equity Foundation)

All these initiatives will in turn boost the demand for wire and cable industry.

Telecom Sector

The telecom sector in India has been one of the fastest growing sectors in recent years. It is now the second largest telephone network in the world, after only China with respect to subscriber base of nearly 898 million in March 2013. A series of reform measures by the government, wireless technology, and active participation by the private sector played an important role in the exponential growth of the telecom sector in the country. India has a rising penetration rate with urban teledensity standing at 147% while rural teledensity being 41% as of March 2013, up from 111% and 21.2% respectively, in 2009

Another important driver is the rollout of 3G and broadband on a pan-India basis which will boost the market as demand will increase as players look to enhance the broadband penetration levels.

Sharing of active infrastructure will allow operators to share key electronic components such as antennae, radio access networks, transmission system and backhaul. Globally, sharing of active infrastructure elements has been in commercial operation by 2G and 3G players. In India, it needs to be seen as to how required trust can be developed between operators sharing their active infrastructure elements in the geographies where they compete as well. At present growth in subscriber base is coming from rural/semi urban areas, the incremental average revenue per user (ARPU) is relatively lower. Further network planning and design in rural areas is different from that in urban areas, given that population in rural areas is widely dispersed, which increases the tower requirement and hence active infrastructure requirement.

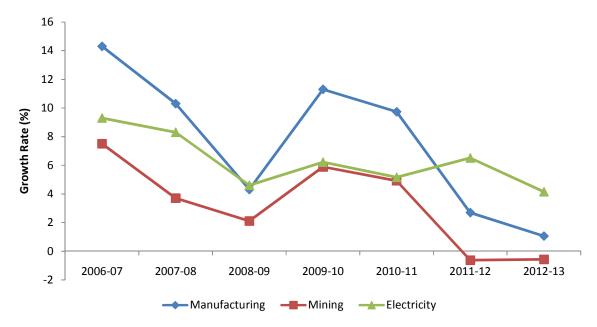

There is also tremendous potential in the Fiber-to-the-Home segment since today's users are looking increasingly for a quadruple play of high-speed broadband, high-definition video, unlimited anywhere telephony, and real-time surveillance. To cater to the growing energy requirement across the globe, investments in new generation facilities are inevitable.

Industrial Sector

Industrial investment coming in the form of factories, buildings, machineries and other electrical equipments would require cables- be it high, medium or low-tension. This would drive demand for cables in industrial sector, going forward. Government impetus in refineries, power and fertilizers will offer a boost to the cable industry as almost all manufacturing companies need cables. Robust industrialization and growing urbanization are the other important drivers identified.

Annual Average Growth Rate of Industrial Production in Major Sectors of Economy (as on 31st May 2013):

The Index of Industrial Production has slumped from 12.17% in 2006-07 to 2.08 in 2012-13. However, recent reforms on the policy front are expected to revitalize the investment cycle. Therefore there is a huge scope of improvement in the industrial production which eventually will drive the demand for wires and cables.

Others

India's economic growth has accelerated significantly over the past decade. Industries like pharmaceuticals, refineries, automobile and railways consuming wires and cables on a large scale have seen a significant growth over the years. There is a huge amount of investment flowing in all these sectors which in turn would create huge demand for cables like control and instrumentation cables, specialty cables, etc.

The wire industry in India also depends on the construction and automotive sector. Infrastructure and housing are the growth engines of the construction sector and the government places high priority on transportation networks and residential housing (urban areas alone are in need of millions of apartments). Additionally, growth will be fuelled by urbanization as cables and wires will be required in buildings and offices. The Indian automotive industry has recovered and according to the Association of Indian Automobile Manufacturers, the sales of cars will double or even triple by 2015.

Challenges:

Since basically all areas of life rely on wire and the products that are manufactured from wire, and while their property potential is seemingly not yet exhausted, the wire, cable and wire processing industry is constantly faced with new challenges. In order to meeting these challenges it require machinery, tooling, accessories, ancillary equipment and services that are as efficient as possible in their utilization of energy and raw materials, and which produce as little waste as possible during startup and production.

- Challenges identified include increasing price rise and competition from Chinese imports. As the price of copper continues to increase, profit margins are squeezed and they become uncompetitive in the international market.
- The cable industry is facing few challenges at the moment such as tight liquidity positions, pressures from increasing input raw material costs, difficulty in getting the right manpower both towards manufacturing & administrative activities.
- The cable industry also lacks good R&D facilities and talent.
- As products grow more complex and weight reduction becomes more critical, engineers are eager to find an alternative. Evolving technology, such as carbon nanotubes, fiber optics and printed electrical systems, may provide the backbone of future electrical distribution systems in cars, trucks, locomotives, aircraft and other vehicles.
 - Carbon Nanotubes: Carbon nanotubes are already being used for some military applications that require smaller and lighter wiring harnesses, such as unmanned aerial vehicles and satellites.
 - Fiber Optics: Fiber optics has potential to replace traditional electrical wiring in some products, such as airplanes and helicopters which could result in lighter, more fuel-efficient airplanes with more reliable control and monitoring systems.
 - Printed Electrical Systems: In the near future, wiring harnesses, connectors and other electrical components may be printed with the touch of a button. Printed electrical systems are an offshoot of printed electronics, a fast-growing field.

Future Outlook:

Electrical wires and cables market is growing at a steady pace as the government is investing heavily in infrastructure development. Increase in capacity of the existing power plants and commissioning of the new ones have resulted in higher demand for electric wires and cables.

Category-wise Forecast of Electrical Energy Consumption by the end of 12th and 13th Plan:

Domestic	289924	426148
Commercial	116535	185722
Irrigation	210611	287926
Industrial	393306	585819

Total	1098995	1611808

In 12th plan (2012-2017) there is a target of 100000 MW of power generation which ensures a steady growth in wire and cable industry

(Source: http://www.wirecable.in/2011/07/views-on-wire-cable-industry/)

- Design changes will allow cable ratings to increase, allowing smaller cables for higher voltages. There may be the replacement of the ring main with radial networks using smaller cables to supply a group of sockets. Ducted cables running behind skirting boards will allow surface mounting, and bus bars will be used within buildings. This will also help to meet air tightness requirements of sustainability standards by reducing the need to knock random holes in walls to install cables. With more off-site manufacturing and testing to make onsite installation quicker there will be increased use of prefabricated cable and plug systems that require less installation skills.
- Although the optical fiber network in India is the fourth largest in the world, the optical fiber length per capita is only 39 meters in this country while it's 197 meters in China and 907 meters in the United States. We think Indian cable demand would increase faster reaching 15-20 million km in 2015.

OUR PRODUCTS

Armoured Cable

Armoured cables are generally used for underground wiring. Armoured cables are power cables which comprises of two or more electric conductors which are enveloped in a protective sheath. The cable derives its name from its protective nature and allows better electric transmission with lesser risks involved. The significance of armoured cables lies in its construction. Each and every component plays a significant role in energy transmission. The conducting wires which are mostly made of copper offer superior conductivity. The cross-linked polyethylene insulation enveloped in wires allows better energy transmission by preventing external alterations.

Armoured cables are more flexible than their counter-parts and this makes them the first choice for industrial purposes. The installation bends and twists involved in installation do not hamper its external shape and energy transmission. The mechanism involved in these cables allows better flexibility thus, making it durable for large electric transmission. The chromium content in the steel armour protects the cable from external harsh environment when exposed to it. The heat-resistant ability of armoured cables should be attributed towards the PVC bedding and the external layer of steel armour. The external protection in conductors allows better transmission of energy under high pressure.

Unarmoured Cable

Unarmoured electrical cable has no protective flexible steel covering, its covering is made of plastic.

Flexible & House Wires

Flexible cables or 'continuous-flex' cables are cables specially designed to cope with the tight bending radii and physical stress associated with moving applications, such as inside cable carriers. Due to increasing demands within the field of automation technology in the 1980s, such as increasing loads, moving cables guided inside cable carriers often failed, although the cable carriers themselves did not. In extreme cases, failures caused by "corkscrews" and core ruptures brought entire production lines to a standstill at high cost. As a result, highly flexible cables were developed with unique characteristics to differentiate them from standard designs.

These are sometimes called "chain-suitable," "high-flex," or "continuous flex" cables. A higher level of flexibility means the service life of a cable inside a cable carrier can be greatly extended. A normal cable typically manages 50,000 cycles but a dynamic cable can complete between one and three million cycles. Flexible cables can be divided into two types: those with conductors stranded in layers inside the cable and those that have bundled or braided conductors. Flexible cables manufactured by us include:

Submersible Cable

Submersible cables help transmit energy in submerged devices. Fully submersible, these cables with their tough robust insulation allows better energy transmission and helps avoid accidents. Primarily used to supply energy to submersible pumps, these cables can also be used to extract water from deep underground reservoirs. However, there are various kinds of submersible cables and each differs from the other in terms of performance and function. The specification of this variety of cable depends on its working environment, the electrical load and the type of external liquid it comes in contact with. Ideally, the cable used for pumping underground wa ter should be free from harmful chemicals and provide resistance to abrasion.

Most submersible wires are enveloped in durable rubber and plastic compounds that are flexible and provide optimum protection against the liquid it is surrounded by. Designed for excellent performance even under fully submerged condition, these cables withstand the impact of corrosive liquids and abrasion. Used in the aquarium filtration system, these cables are also used for illuminating floodlights. It's the ideal replacement to ordinary cables in construction sites which require greater protection and resistance to water. Submersible Cables manufactured by us include:

Control & Instrumentation Cable

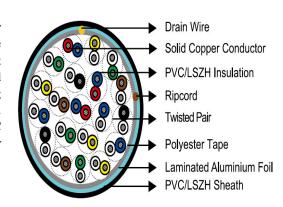

Instrumentation cables have very diverse applications. These cables are designed for use in communication and instrumentation application in and around process industries like oil exploration, cement, paper, steel, power generation and others. Cable made to specific rigid requirements are utilized in process controls, transmission of signals, computers, control systems and monitor networks as well as in intrinsically safe systems in hazardous areas like petrochemical plants and thermal power plants

The technological and economic development of a society is closely connected with the wire and cable industry and its suppliers. Since basically all areas of life rely on wire and the products that are manufactured from wire, and while their property potential is seemingly not yet exhausted, the wire, cable and wire processing industry is constantly faced with new challenges. In order to meeting these challenges, it requires machinery, tooling, accessories, ancillary equipment and services that are as efficient as possible in their utilization of energy and raw materials, and which produce as little waste as possible during startup and production.

Telephone Switch Board Cables

Telephone Switch Board Cables are used for indoor Telephones, Telephone Exch anges, Satellite Telecommunication Systems, Industrial Plant Communication Systems, EPBAX Systems, Closed Circuit Security Systems, In-House Telephone wiring and various other equipments involving telephones. These Cables are generally made as per TEC Specification No. G/WIR-06/02 or as per customer specification.

Flame Retardant-Low Smoke & Halogen Cables

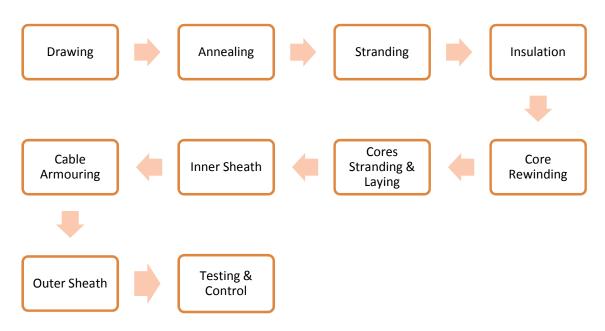

Flame Retardant-Low Smoke & Halogen Cables are recommended for places where human concentration is high like shopping malls, buildings, offices, hospitals, etc. These cables are made up of specially formulated PVC Polymers which restrict toxic gases and smoke, and doesn't allow fire to spread. We also manufacture Zero-Halogen Flame Retardant Cables which are manufactured using special polymeric compounds that are Halogen-free which should be the first choice for places like shopping malls, offices, cinema halls etc. It has a high oxygen index, thus offering superior protection against fire. Choking being the main reason of death during fire, we have designed our wires with technology that releases less toxic gas because they are halogen free. Thus reducing the chances of choking during fire. Being halogen free makes them eco friendly as well. As everyday, regular wires releases huge amounts of hazardous halogen gases, depleting the earth's ozone layer.

MANUFACTURING PROCESS

The basic components for cable manufacturing are conductors (Copper/Alloy), PVC/XLPE, Dielectric Insulation, Inner Sheath, G.I. Wire, Armouring and Outer Sheath. The manufacturing of cables involves the following steps –

1. Drawing:

Bulk copper is formed into wire of varying diameters by drawing it through a series of dies. Wires are drawn in required sizes as per the specification by using Copper/ Aluminum as well as Alloy conductor of required specification.

2. Annealing:

Since the drawing process causes the copper to become hard and brittle, it should be annealed. The drawn wires are then softened by heating and slow cooling. This process is called annealing. We have installed an automatic annealing system, which helps us in strengthening the drawn wires.

3. Stranding:

Anywhere from 20-100 (very fine copper conductor wires) are twisted into cords which will be used in making flexible wire and cable.

Layers of wires (1+6+12+18+24 etc.) are stranded together to make copper conductors. The maximum nominal cross-section area of a power cable core is 500mm².

The next step is stranding in which wires are grouped together in order to make the cables more flexible. In this process, smaller individual wires are twisted or bunched together to produce larger number of wires that are more flexible than solid wires of similar size. A thin coat of a specific material is coated, usually tin, on the individual wires, which provides better solder ability.

4. Insulation:

The copper conductors, whether single wire or multiple stranded wires, are covered by PVC for current insulation. Insulation is a process in which the conductors/cables are covered with material as per the requirement to provide the insulating properties required by the user according to the customer's specification. Cables are manufactured with both thermoplastic and thermosetting insulation, insulated with PVC/PE/XLPE as required by the specification. Insulation for the cables is strictly done and applied over conductors by extrusion through the electrical process and undergoes the online H.V. Spark tests.

5. Core rewinding:

All insulated cores are rewound to the particular required lengths, passing through the electrical stress test i.e. spark test, which are further processed only after passing through the various physical, electrical and mechanical tests.

6. Cores stranding and laying process:

Three or four of these PVC insulated copper conductors are assembled into power cables. The next step is stranding, in which insulated wires called cores are grouped together, to make the cables symmetrically round. In this process, smaller individual cores are twisted or cabled together to make larger cores that are round and flexible.

7. Inner Sheath:

Complete cables are formed by sheathing twin-core or multiple-core PVC insulated copper conductors with PVC. Inner Sheath is a process in which the cables are coated to provide the sheathing properties as required by the user. Cables are manufactured with both thermoplastic and thermosetting extrusion. They are sheathed with PVC/PE/XLPE as required by the specification. Sheathing for the cables is strictly done and applied over insulated cable by extrusion through the electrical process and passing through the online H.V. Spark tests.

8. Cable Armouring:

Special purpose power cables must be surrounded with steel wires in order to increase the cable structure strength. Armouring process is conducted on inner sheathed multi core cables. Galvanized steel wires and strips are used for protection of internal cores. This process is required for underground application of electrical power and control cables.

9. Outer Sheath:

Outer sheath is a process in which the cables are coated to provide the sheathing properties required by the user. Cables are manufactured with both thermoplastic and thermosetting extrusion. They are overall sheathed with PVC/PE/XLPE as required by the specification. Sheathing of the cables is strictly done and applied over armoured or un-armoured cabled cores by extrusion, through the electrical process and passing through the online high voltage spark tests.

10. Testing and Quality Control:

The cables are tested as per Indian standard specifications to ensure that the cables are free from all defects.

The Factories Act, 1948 ("Factories Act") aims at regulating labour employed in factories. A "factory" is defined as "any premises... whereon ten or more workers are working or were working on any day of the preceding twelve months, and in any part of which a manufacturing process is being carried on with the aid of power, or is ordinarily so carried on, or whereon twenty or more workers are working, or were working on any day of the preceding twelve months, and in any part of which a manufacturing process is carried on without the aid of power, or is ordinarily so carried on...". The main aim of the said Act is to ensure adequate safety measures and to promote the health and welfare of the workers employed in factories initiating various measures from time to time to ensure that adequate standards of safety, health and welfare are achieved at all the places. Under the Factories Act, the State Government may make rules mandating approval for proposed factories and requiring licensing and registration of factories. The Factories Act makes detailed provision for ensuring sanitary conditions in the factory and safety of the workers and also lays down permissible working hours, leave etc. In addition, it makes provision for the adoption of worker welfare measures.

Payment of Wages Act 1936

The Payment of Wages Act 1936 ("PWA") makes provisions regarding the date by which wages are to be paid, when it will be paid and what deductions can be made from the wages of the workers.

Payment of Bonus Act 1965

The Payment of Bonus Act 1965 is applicable to all establishments employing 20 or more employees. The said Act provides for payments of annual bonus subject to a minimum of 8.33% of wages and maximum of 20% of wages to employees drawing Rs.3500/- per month or less. The bonus to be paid to employees getting Rs.2500/- per month or above upto Rs.3500/- per month is worked out by taking wages as Rs.2500/- per month only. The Act does not apply to certain establishments. The newly setup establishments are exempted for five years in certain circumstances. Some of the State Governments have reduced the employment size from 20 to 10 for the purpose of applicability of this Act.

Employees' Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952

Employees' Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952 ("EPFA") was introduced with the object to providing provident funds for the benefit of employees in factories and other establishments. It provides for the institution of provident funds and pension funds for employees in establishments, which employ more than 20 persons, and factories specified in Schedule I of the EPFA. Under the EPFA, the Central Government has framed the "Employees' Provident Fund Scheme", "Employees Deposit-linked Insurance Scheme" and the "Employees' Family Pension Scheme". The funds constituted under these schemes consist of contributions from both the employer and the employees, in the manner specified in the statute. The EPFA prescribes penalties for avoiding payments required to be made under the above-mentioned schemes.

Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972

The Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972 ("PGA") was enacted with the objective to regulate the payment of gratuity, to an employee who has rendered for his long and meritorious service, at the time of termination of his services. Gratuity is payable to an employee on the termination of his employment after he has rendered continuous service for not less than five years:

- (a) on his/her superannuation;
- (b) on his/her retirement or resignation;
- (c) on his/her death or disablement due to accident or disease (in this case the minimum requirement of five years does not apply).

The PGA establishes a scheme for the payment of gratuity to employees engaged in every factory, mine, oil field, plantation, port and railway Company; every shop or establishment in which ten or more persons are employed or were employed on any day of the preceding twelve months; and in such other establishments in which ten or more persons are employed or were employed on any day of the preceding twelve months, as the Central Government may, by notification, specify. Penalties are prescribed for non-compliance with statutory provisions.

Minimum Wages Act, 1948

The Minimum Wages Act, 1948 ("MWA") came into force with an objective to provide for the fixation of a minimum wage payable by the employer to the employee. Under the MWA, every employer is mandated to pay the minimum wages to all employees engaged to do any work skilled, unskilled, manual or clerical (including out-workers) in any employment listed in the schedule to the MWA, in respect of which minimum rates of wages have been fixed or revised under the MWA. Construction of Buildings, Roads, and Runways are scheduled employments. It prescribes penalties for non-compliance by employers for payment of the wages thus fixed.

Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923

The Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923 ("WCA") has been enacted with the objective to provide for the payment of compensation to workmen by employers for injuries by accident arising out of and in the course of employment, and for occupational diseases resulting in death or disablement. The WCA makes every employer liable to pay compensation in accordance with the WCA if a personal injury/disablement/ loss of life is caused to a workman (including those employed through a contractor) by accident arising out of and in the course of his employment. In case the employer fails to pay compensation due under the WCA within one month from the date it falls due, the commissioner appointed under the WCA may direct the employer to pay the compensation amount along with interest and may also impose a penalty.

Industrial Disputes Act 1947
