2. Our top five clients contribute approximately 85% of our revenues for the period ending September 30, 2013. Any loss of business from one or more of them may adversely affect our revenues and profitability.

Our top five clients contribute approximately 85% of our revenues for the period ended September 30, 2013. Any decline in our quality standards, growing competition and any change in the demand for our products by these customers may adversely affect our ability to retain them. We cannot assure that we shall generate the same quantum of business, or any business at all, from these customers, and loss of business from one or more of them may adversely affect our revenues and profitability. However, the composition and revenue generated from these clients might change as we continue to add new clients in normal course of business. We intend to retain our customers by offering solutions to address specific needs in a proactive, cost effective and time efficient manner. This helps us in providing better value to each customer thereby increasing our engagement with our new and existing customer base that presents a substantial opportunity for growth.

3. Our Company has a negative cash flow in the past 5 years, details of which are given below. Sustained negative cash flow could impact our growth and business.

Our Company had negative cash flows from our operating activities, investing activities as well as financing activities in some of the previous year(s) as per the Audited Financial Statements and the same are summarized as under:

(Rs. in lakhs)

Particulars	For The Year Ended March 31,					For the Half year ended September 30, 2013
	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013
Cash Flow from / (used in) Operating Activities	(2.52)	0.90	(168.51)	(188.96)	125.06	(16.55)
Cash Flow from / (used in) Investing Activities	(41.19)	(27.88)	(138.61)	(48.89)	(324.89)	(411.66)
Cash Flow from / (used in) Financing Activities	44.11	27.92	308.00	237.54	199.94	432.60

Cash flow of a company is a key indicator to show the extent of cash generated from operations to meet capital expenditure, pay dividends, repay loans and make new investments without raising finance from external resources. Particulars	As on September 30, 2013	As on 31 st
		March 2013	March 2012	March 2011
Net Working Capital (Excl Short Term Borrowings)	459.57	401.11	477.03	189.56
Total Current Assets	1,354.30	582.14	509.88	202.37

Trade receivables as % of Total Current Assets	65.05	58.13	53.19	52.35

The lead manufacturing process is working capital intensive and involves a lot of investment in trade receivables. We intend to continue growing by reaching to other geographical areas. All these factors may result in increase in the quantum of current assets. Our inability to maintain sufficient cash flow, credit facility and other sources of fund, in a timely manner, or at all, to meet the requirement of working capital or pay out debts, could adversely affect our financial condition and result of our operations.

5. Delays or defaults in client payments could result in a reduction of our profits.

We may be subject to working capital shortages due to delays or defaults in payment by clients. If clients default in their payments to which we have devoted significant resources it could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations and could cause the price of our Equity Shares to decline.

For details please refer to chapter titled “Government and Other Statutory Approvals” beginning on page 189 of this Draft Prospectus.

8. Our logo  is in the process of getting registered. If we fail to obtain trademark registration our brand building efforts may be hampered which might lead to an adverse affect on our business.

One of our Promoter namely Sachin Shridhar, has made an application for registration of our Logo/trademark on November 08, 2013 under the Trademarks Act, 1999 and is in the process of getting the same registered. Our company has been licensed by Mr. Sachin Shridhar to use the name and logo in connection with the business of the Company for a period of 5 years vide letter dated December 01, 2013. currency for Indian Rupees may affect the Company's profitability, since some of our raw material are imported and the payment is to be made in foreign currency.

For further details, please refer to the chapters titled "Our Business", "Our Promoters and Promoter Group" and "Related Party Transactions" beginning on page 97, 125 and 143, respectively of this Draft Prospectus.

12. Within the parameters as mentioned in the chapter titled 'Objects of this Issue' beginning on page 70 of this Draft Prospectus, our Company's management will have flexibility in applying the proceeds of this Issue. The fund requirement and deployment mentioned in the Objects of this Issue have not been appraised by any bank or financial institution.

We intend to use entire fresh Issue Proceeds towards working capital needs, to meet the issue expenses and General Corporate Purpose. We intend to deploy the Net Issue Proceeds in financial year 2014-15 and such deployment is based on certain assumptions and strategy which our Company believes to implement in future. The funds raised from the fresh Issue may remain idle on account of change in assumptions, market conditions, strategy of our Company, etc. For further details on the use of the Issue Proceeds, please refer to chapter titled "Objects of the Issue" beginning on page 70 of this Draft Prospectus.

The deployment of funds for the purposes described above is at the discretion of our Company's Board of Directors. The fund requirement and deployment is based on internal management estimates and has not been appraised by any bank or financial institution. Accordingly, within the parameters as mentioned in the chapter titled 'Objects of this Issue' beginning on page 70 of this Draft Prospectus, the management will have significant flexibility in applying the proceeds received by our Company from the Issue. Our Board of Directors will monitor the utilization of the proceeds of this Issue.

13. Our inability to effectively implement our growth strategies or manage our growth could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Further, we operate in a highly dynamic industry, and on account of changes in market conditions, industry dynamics, technological improvements or changes and any other relevant factors, our growth strategy and plans may undergo changes or modifications, and such changes or modifications may be substantial, and may even include limiting or foregoing growth opportunities if the situation so demands.

- 15. *Insurance cover available for certain risks as is customary in our business may be inadequate and may not protect us from entire liability for damages in case of any unforeseen adverse event.

Although we attempt to limit and mitigate our liability for damages arising from negligent acts, errors or omissions through contractual provisions and/or insurance, the indemnities set forth in our contracts and/or our insurance may not be enforceable in all instances or the limitations of liability may not protect us from entire liability for damages. A successful assertion of one or more large claims against us could adversely affect the results of our operations.

- 16. *Our future funds requirements, in the form of fresh issue of capital or securities and/or loans taken by us, may be prejudicial to the interest of the shareholders depending upon the terms on which they are eventually raised.

We may require additional capital from time to time depending on our business needs. Any fresh issue of shares or convertible securities would dilute the shareholding of the existing shareholders and such issuance may be done on terms and conditions, which may not be favorable to the then existing shareholders. If such funds are raised in the form of loans or debt, then it may substantially increase our interest burden and decrease our cash flows, thus prejudicially affecting our profitability and ability to pay dividends to our shareholders.

- 17. *Our success depends largely upon the services of our Promoters and other Key Managerial Personnel and our ability to retain them. Our inability to attract and retain key managerial personnel may adversely affect the operations of our Company.

Our Company and our Promoters have over the years built relations with suppliers, clients and other persons who are connected with our business. Further, our Key Managerial Personnel also possesses the requisite domain knowledge to provide efficient services to our clients. Accordingly, our Company's performance is dependent upon the services of our Promoters and other Key Managerial Personnel. Our future performance will, therefore, depend upon the continued services of these persons. It is possible that we may lose our skilled and trained staff to our competitors and high attrition rates in particular, could result in a loss of domain and process knowledge. Demand for key managerial personnel in the industry is intense and our inability to attract and retain Key Managerial Personnel may affect the operations of our Company.

- 18. *We may not be able to sustain effective implementation of our business and growth strategy.

The success of our business will depend greatly on our ability to effectively implement our business and growth strategy. Whilst we have generally been successful in execution of our business strategy in the past, there can be no assurance that we will be able to execute our strategy on time and within the estimated budget in the future. If we are unable to implement our business and growth strategy, this may have an adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

- 19. *Due to the absence of any written agreements with our vendors/suppliers, we are exposed to risks due to supply obligations not clearly specified in writing.

We do not have written agreements with our vendors/suppliers and operate on a purchase order system. Due to the absence of any formal contract with our vendors/suppliers, we are exposed to the risks of irregular supplies or no supplies at all and delayed supplies which would materially affect our results of operations.

- 20. *We could be harmed by employee misconduct or errors that are difficult to detect and any such incidences could adversely affect our financial condition, results of operations and reputation.

Employee misconduct or errors could expose us to business risks or losses, including regulatory sanctions and serious harm to our reputation. There can be no assurance that we will be able to detect or deter such misconduct. Moreover, the precautions we take to prevent and detect such activity may not be effective in all cases. Our employees and agents may also commit errors that could subject us to claims and proceedings for alleged negligence, as well as regulatory actions on account of which our business, financial condition, results of operations and goodwill could be adversely affected.

21. Changes in government regulations or their implementation could disrupt our operations and adversely affect our business and results of operations.

Our business and industry is regulated by different laws, rules and regulations framed by the Central and State Government. These regulations can be amended/ changed on a short notice at the discretion of the Government. If we fail to comply with all applicable regulations or if the regulations governing our business or their implementation change adversely, we may incur increased costs or be subject to penalties, which could disrupt our operations and adversely affect our business and results of operations.

22. Our ability to pay dividends will depend upon future earnings, financial condition, cash flows, working capital requirements, capital expenditures and other factors.

Till date our Company has not paid any dividend. The amount of our future dividend payments, if any, will depend upon various factors such as our future earnings, financial condition, cash flows, working capital requirements, capital expenditures and other factors. There can be no assurance that we shall have distributable funds or that we will declare dividends in the future. Additionally, the terms of any financing we obtain in the future, may contain restrictive covenants which may also affect some of the rights of our shareholders, including the payment of the dividend.

23. Our revenues and expenses are difficult to predict and can vary significantly from period to period, which could cause our share price to decline

The economic environment, pricing pressure and decreased employee utilization rates could negatively impact our revenues and operating results. In the event that the Government of India or the government of another country changes its tax policies in a manner that is adverse to us, our tax expense may materially increase, reducing our profitability.

II. Risk related to this Issue and our Equity Shares

24. There are restrictions on daily movements in the price of the Equity Shares, which may adversely affect a shareholder's ability to sell, or the price at which it can sell, Equity Shares at a particular point in time.

Once listed, we would be subject to circuit breakers imposed by all stock exchanges in India, which does not allow transactions beyond specified increases or decreases in the price of the Equity Shares. This circuit breaker operates independently of the index-based market-wide circuit breakers generally imposed by SEBI on Indian stock exchanges. The percentage limit on circuit breakers is set by the stock exchanges based on the historical volatility in the price and trading volume of the Equity Shares. The stock exchanges do not inform us of the percentage limit of the circuit breaker in effect from time to time, and may change it without our knowledge. This circuit breaker limits the upward and downward movements in the price of the Equity Shares. As a result of this circuit breaker, no assurance may be given regarding your ability to sell your Equity Shares or the price at which you may be able to sell your Equity Shares at any particular time.

25. After this Issue, the price of the Equity Shares may be highly volatile, or an active trading market for the Equity Shares may not develop.

The price of the Equity Shares on the Stock Exchanges may fluctuate as a result of the factors, including:

- a. Volatility in the Indian and global capital market;
- b. Company's results of operations and financial performance;
- c. Performance of Company's competitors,
- d. Adverse media reports on Company or pertaining to the Lead refining / Battery Industry ;

- e. Changes in our estimates of performance or recommendations by financial analysts;
- f. Significant developments in India's economic and fiscal policies;
- g. Significant developments in India's environmental regulations.

Current valuations may not be sustainable in the future and may also not be reflective of future valuations for our industry and our Company. There has been no public market for the Equity Shares and the prices of the Equity Shares may fluctuate after this Issue. There can be no assurance that an active trading market for the Equity Shares will develop or be sustained after this Issue or that the price at which the Equity Shares are initially traded will correspond to the price at which the Equity Shares will trade in the market subsequent to this Issue.

26. The Issue price of our Equity Shares may not be indicative of the market price of our Equity Shares after the Issue and the market price of our Equity Shares may decline below the issue price and you may not be able to sell your Equity Shares at or above the Issue Price.

The Issue Price of our Equity Shares has been determined by fixed price method. This price is based on numerous factors (For further information, please refer chapter titled "Basis for Issue Price" beginning on page 74 of this Draft Prospectus) and may not be indicative of the market price of our Equity Shares after the Issue. The market price of our Equity Shares could be subject to significant fluctuations after the Issue, and may decline below the Issue Price. We cannot assure you that you will be able to sell your Equity Shares at or above the Issue Price. Among the factors that could affect our share price include without limitation. The following:

- Half yearly variations in the rate of growth of our financial indicators, such as earnings per share, net income and revenues;
- Changes in revenue or earnings estimates or publication of research reports by analysts;
- Speculation in the press or investment community;
- General market conditions; and
- Domestic and international economic, legal and regulatory factors unrelated to our performance.

27. You will not be able to sell immediately on Indian Stock Exchanges any of the Equity Shares you purchase in the Issue until the Issue receives appropriate trading permissions.

The Equity Shares will be listed on the Stock Exchange. Pursuant to Indian regulations, certain actions must be completed before the Equity Shares can be listed and trading may commence. We cannot assure you that the Equity Shares will be credited to investors' demat accounts, or that trading in the Equity Shares will commence, within the time periods specified in this Draft Prospectus. Any failure or delay in obtaining the approval would restrict your ability to dispose of the Equity Shares. In accordance with Section 40 of the Companies Act, 2013 in the event that the permission of listing the Equity Shares is denied by the stock exchanges, we are required to refund all monies collected to investors.

B. EXTERNAL RISK FACTORS

28. We have not prepared, and currently do not intend to prepare, our financial statements in accordance with the International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS"). Our transition to IFRS reporting could have a material adverse effect on our reported results of operations or financial condition.

Public companies in India, including us, may be required to prepare annual and interim financial statements under IFRS in accordance with the roadmap for convergence with IFRS announced by the Ministry of Corporate Affairs, Government of India through a press note dated January 22, 2010 (the "IFRS Convergence Note"). The date of implementation of such converged Indian accounting standards has not yet been determined. Our financial condition, results of operations, cash flows or changes in shareholders' equity may appear materially different under IFRS than under Indian GAAP or our adoption of converged Indian Accounting Standards may adversely affect our reported results of operations or financial condition. This may have a material adverse effect on the amount of income recognized during that period and in the corresponding (restated) period in the comparative Fiscal/period.

29. Political instability or changes in the Government could adversely affect economic conditions in India generally and our business in particular.

Our business, and the market price and liquidity of our Equity Shares, may be affected by interest rates, changes in Government policy, taxation, social and civil unrest and other political, economic or other developments in or affecting India. Elimination or substantial change of policies or the introduction of policies that negatively affect the Company's business could cause its results of operations to suffer. Any significant change in India's economic policies could disrupt business and economic conditions in India generally and the Company's business in particular.

30. Financial instability in Indian financial markets could adversely affect our company's results of operations and financial condition.

In this globalised world, the Indian economy and financial markets are significantly influenced by worldwide economic, financial and market conditions. Any financial turmoil, say in the United States of America, Europe, China or other emerging economies, may have a negative impact on the Indian economy. Although economic conditions differ in each country, investors' reactions to any significant developments in one country can have adverse effects on the financial and market conditions in other countries. A loss in investor confidence in the financial systems, particularly in other emerging markets, may cause increased volatility in Indian financial markets. Indian financial markets have also experienced the contagion effect of the global financial turmoil. Any prolonged financial crisis may have an adverse impact on the Indian economy, thereby resulting in a material and adverse effect on our Company's business, operations, financial condition, profitability and price of its Shares. Stock exchanges in India have in the past experienced substantial fluctuations in the prices of listed securities.

31. Foreign investors are subject to foreign investment restrictions under Indian law that limits our ability to attract foreign investors, which may adversely impact the market price of the Equity Shares.

Under the foreign exchange regulations currently in force in India, transfers of shares between nonresidents and residents are freely permitted (subject to certain exceptions) if they comply with the pricing guidelines and reporting requirements specified by the RBI. If the transfer of shares, which are sought to be transferred, is not in compliance with such pricing guidelines or reporting requirements or fall under any of the exceptions referred to above, then the prior approval of the RBI will be required. Additionally, shareholders who seek to convert the Rupee proceeds from a sale of shares in India into foreign currency and repatriate that foreign currency from India will require a no objection/ tax clearance certificate from the income tax authority. There can be no assurance that any approval required from the RBI or any other government agency can be obtained on any particular terms or at all.

32. Global economic, political and social conditions may harm our ability to do business, increase our costs and negatively affect our stock price.

Global economic and political factors that are beyond our control, influence forecasts and directly affect performance. These factors include interest rates, rates of economic growth, fiscal and monetary policies of governments, inflation, deflation, foreign exchange fluctuations, consumer credit availability, fluctuations in commodities markets, consumer debt levels, unemployment trends and other matters that influence consumer confidence, spending and tourism. Increasing volatility in financial markets may cause these factors to change with a greater degree of frequency and magnitude, which may negatively affect our stock prices.

33. Terrorist attacks, civil unrests and other acts of violence or war involving India or other countries could adversely affect the financial markets, our business, financial condition and the price of our Equity Shares.

Any major hostilities involving India or other acts of violence, including civil unrest or similar events that are beyond our control, could have a material adverse effect on India's economy and our business. Incidents such as the Mumbai terrorist attacks and other acts of violence may adversely affect the Indian stock markets where our Equity Shares will trade as well the global equity markets generally. Such acts could negatively impact business sentiment as well as trade between countries, which could adversely affect our Company's business and profitability. Additionally, such events could have a material adverse effect on the market for securities of Indian companies, including the Equity Shares.

34. Taxes and other levies imposed by the Government of India or other State Governments, as well as other financial policies and regulations, may have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

Taxes and other levies imposed by the Central or State Governments in India that affect our industry include sales tax, income tax and other taxes, duties or surcharges introduced on a permanent or temporary basis from time to time. Imposition of any other taxes by the Central and the State Governments may adversely affect our results of operations.

35. Demand for our products may decrease during an economic recession which may adversely affect our profitability and financial condition.

The Battery industry historically has experienced cyclical fluctuations in financial results due to economic recession, downturns in business cycles of our customers, fuel shortages, interest rate fluctuations, and other economic factors beyond our control.

36. Our Company's Equity Shares are proposed to be listed and traded on BSE SME Platform, which is of recent origin and may take time to establish BSE SME Platform was launched by BSE on 13th March, 2012. Such an SME platform is of recent origin and may take time to establish in markets. Since its launch till the date of this Draft Prospectus, 54 (Fifty Four) companies have been listed on BSE SME Platform and another 5 (Five) companies listed on NSE SME Platform – Emerge. Investors may still not have strong confidence for initial subscription and / or secondary market trading in SME scrip. Moreover, it is proposed to list the Equity Shares of our Company only on BSE SME Platform. Investment in this Issue, thus, could be riskier.

37. Any downgrading of India's sovereign rating by an independent agency may harm our ability to raise financing.

Any adverse revisions to India's credit ratings for domestic and international debt by international rating agencies may adversely impact our ability to raise additional financing, and the interest rates and other commercial terms at which such additional financing may be available. This could have an adverse effect on our business and future financial performance, our ability to obtain financing for capital expenditures and the trading price of our Equity Shares.

38. Natural calamities could have a negative impact on the Indian economy and cause Our Company's business to suffer.

India has experienced natural calamities such as earthquakes, tsunami, and floods in recent years. The extent and severity of these natural disasters determine their impact on the Indian economy. Prolonged spells of abnormal rainfall or other natural calamities could have a negative impact on the Indian economy, which could adversely affect our business, prospects, financial condition and results of operation as well as the price of the Equity Shares.

39. You may be subject to Indian taxes arising out of capital gains on sale of Equity Shares.

Under current Indian tax laws and regulations, capital gains arising from the sale of equity shares in an Indian company are generally taxable in India. Any gain realized on the sale of listed equity shares on a stock exchange held for more than 12 months is not subject to capital gains tax in India if securities transaction tax (“STT”) is paid on the transaction. STT will be levied on and collected by a domestic stock exchange on which the Equity Shares are sold. Any gain realized on the sale of equity shares held for more than 12 months to an Indian resident, which are sold other than on a recognized stock exchange and on which no STT has been paid, will be subject to long term capital gains tax in India. Further, any gain realized on the sale of listed equity shares held for a period of 12 months or less will be subject to short term capital gains tax. Any change in tax provisions may significantly impact your return on investments.

SECTION III – INTRODUCTION

SUMMARY OF OUR INDUSTRY

History & Occurrence

Humans have used lead for at least 7,000 years mainly because deposits containing lead are widespread and it is easy to extract and work with. Lead was mentioned in the book of Exodus. Alchemists thought that lead was the oldest metal and associated it with the planet Saturn. Lead pipes bearing the insignia of Roman emperors are symbol in service today in some countries. Lead’s symbol Pb is an abbreviation of its Latin name plumbum.

Worldwide, the lead and zinc deposits invariably occur together. Very few deposits contain either lead or zinc as single metal. The main lead mineral is galena (PbS). Other common varieties include cerussite (PbCO₃) and anglesite (PbSO₄).

Properties of Lead

Lead is a bright luster, dense, ductile, very soft and highly malleable bluish-white metal which can be toughened by adding a small amount of antimony or other metals to it. As a heavy, malleable metal, lead is one of the most resistant to common corrosion problems. It is a naturally occurring element and is usually associated with other minerals, notably zinc, silver and copper. Trace amounts of other elements, including gold, are sometimes found with lead ore. The ore is mined, concentrated and then smelted in a blast furnace with limestone and coke. It is refined to remove and recover other metals.

Lead has some important properties, in particular malleability (i.e. it can be hammered into shape), ease of production, ease of melting and joining, and good corrosion resistance. As a result, it has been used for purposes such as roofing, windows, piping, kitchen/tableware and ornamental uses for many centuries. The electrochemical properties of lead enable it to be used in storage batteries in all motor vehicles, and for some back-up power supplies.

Process

Beneficiation

Beneficiation of lead and zinc ore is a very complex process as it involves separation of lead concentrates and zinc concentrates which have to be effectively treated in different smelters to win both the metals separately.

The process of beneficiation of lead ore to produce concentrates involves following processes:

1. Crushing

Run-of-mine ore (ROM) is crushed in 3 stages namely, primary, secondary, and tertiary. Primary crushing is done by jaw crusher or gyratory crusher. Cone crushers are used in secondary crushing. Sometimes reduced gyratory crushers are also used. Tertiary crushing is done by short head cone crusher.

2. Grinding & Classification

The grinding of ore is to be done precisely because overgrinding of ore will result the galena ore into slimy particles. The slimy galena ore particles may result into low recovery of lead metal. Grinding of crushed ore is achieved by ball mills in closed circuit with spiral classifiers or cyclones. Some of the flotation reagents are added at the time of grinding. The final product of grinding and classification is in the form of slurry of finely ground material.

3. Conditioning

This is the process adopted to separate the lead ore from the complex ore. The finely ground ore in the form of slurry contains sulphide minerals like sphalerite, galena, pyrite and pyrrhotite. Iron oxides, silica, dolomite, carbonaceous material and graphitic material are also present as gangue minerals. The precious metals like gold, silver etc. are also present. Proper conditioning of the material is required to separate these constituents by selective flotation. To achieve this, the reagents like selective depressants, activators, collectors and frothers are used.

4. Flotation

Flotation is carried out in flotation chambers which have impellers and arrangement to supply air bubbles. In lead flotation chambers, rougher lead flotation and cleaner lead flotation are carried out. The chemical reagents used are modifiers, dispersants, activators, collectors and frothers.

5. Thickening, Filtration, Drying & Tailing Disposal

The concentrates of lead thus separated are thickened in thickeners and filtered in filters. Both these processes reduce the water content of the concentrate and recover the water for re-use. The tailings are subjected to cycloning to recover solids in a cyclone. The over-flow of cyclone is sent to thickeners and the tailings from the cyclone are sent to tailing dam. The tailing water can be reused after some necessary treatment before sending to tailing dam.

Smelting

Smelting is a process by which lead concentrate is treated to produce lead metal. There are two types of smelting processes: (1) Pyrometallurgical process and (2) Hydrometallurgical process. The process adopted depends upon the type of ore used as a charge.

(Source: Market Survey on Lead & Zinc – Indian Bureau of Mines)

Pyrometallurgical Process:

The conventional Pyrometallurgical process for production of primary lead is carried out in 4 steps:

1. Sintering

The main feed for sintering process is the lead concentrates. Other materials such as iron, silica, limestone flux, coke, etc. are added to the sintering machine. The sinters are made out of the mixture of lead concentrate along with flux and other required material.

2. Smelting

The sinters are then fed to a blast furnace with a blast of hot air or oxygen. The lead metal thus produced is in molten stage. The molten lead being heavy, settles at the bottom of the furnace. The other layers are speiss, which contains the lightest material like arsenic and antimony. The 'matte' contains copper sulphide and other metal sulphides and blast furnace slag which comprise silicates. The heaviest layer which contains 98% lead by weight is known as lead bullion.

3. Drossing

The rough lead bullion obtained from blast furnace requires preliminary treatment before refining. This treatment is known as drossing. During drossing, the molten lead bullion is agitated in a drossing kettle and cooled to a temperature just above its freezing point (at 370°C to 425°C). The dross floats at top which is composed of lead oxide along with copper, antimony and other elements. The dross solidifies above the molten lead, which is removed and fed to a dross furnace for recovery of other metals.

4. Refining

The lead bullion is subjected to Pyrometallurgical process to remove non-lead materials such as gold, silver, bismuth, zinc and oxides of metal such as antimony, arsenic, tin and copper. The refining is done in cast iron kettles in four stages.

- In the first stage, antimony, tin and arsenic are removed. For this, the molten lead is churned with oxidising agent such as molten sodium hydroxide or sodium nitrate for few hours.
- In the next stage, gold and silver are removed from molten lead with the help of zinc. The molten lead is heated with zinc. The precious metals i.e. gold and silver form an alloy with zinc which is then allowed to solidify which floats at the top and can be removed.
- The only impurity that may be left now is bismuth. Bismuth can be removed by electrolytic process. Alternatively, bismuth can be removed by production of stoichiometric CaMg_2Bi_2 compound by adding calcium and magnesium as an alloy or individual metals, crystals and removed by skimming. The purity of the refined lead obtained by this process is 99.90% to 99.99%.

The Pyrometallurgical process has a major advantage that it incurs low cost as electricity consumption is less. But the fumes of lead and sulphur pose environmental problems. The level of purity of lead produced is low.

(Source: Market Survey on Lead & Zinc – Indian Bureau of Mines)

Hydrometallurgical Processes:

These processes are also known as electrolytic processes. The main principle behind these processes is that the anodes of impure lead (lead bullion) are dissolved in an electrolyte and pure lead is deposited on cathode. The most important and largely adopted process amongst these is 'Betts Process'. This process is adopted after smelting and copper is removed from the lead bullion followed by softening. In the Betts process, large cast anodes (about 1 sq m) of lead bullion from which copper is already removed are used. Thin starter sheets of high purity lead are used as cathodes on which newly refined lead particles are deposited. Fluosilicate acid is used as an electrolyte. When an electric current is passed through the electrolyte, the lead is deposited on cathode. Impurities in lead like bismuth, antimony, arsenic, gold and silver remain as anode slime which is treated separately to recover these metals.

(Source: Market Survey on Lead & Zinc – Indian Bureau of Mines)

There are few advantages of the hydrometallurgical (electrolytic) process over the conventional Pyrometallurgical process. Firstly, the lead obtained by the electrolytic process has higher degree of purity. Secondly, any bismuth if present is effectively removed. As high temperature is not required, dust fumes are also not evolved.

Products of Lead

1. Lead Compounds

Many compounds of lead are strongly colored and highly durable. These properties of lead compounds make them useful in paint and pigments. White lead or basic lead carbonate is an intimate mixture of lead carbonate and lead hydroxide or lead oxide. It is very durable and has good external weathering properties and hence used in paints and pigments.

The oxides of lead are mainly used as additives in glass and PVC. Red lead was historically used in paints and anticorrosive pigment in antirust primers used for protection of steelworks.

Another important lead compound is basic lead silicate which is used in cathodic electro position primers for motor vehicles. Lead compounds are also used as stabilizers in PVC. All thermoplastics (plastics which soften on heating) require small amount of additives which are known as stabilizers to prevent degradation of the material.

Lead oxide is added to glasses and glazes. The main advantage of addition of lead oxide is reduction in melting point. Addition of lead compounds to silica based glass can reduce the softening temperature considerably. Moreover, leaded glass gives more attractive and sparkling appearance. This is useful in optical glass used in binoculars, microscopes and spectacles. Leaded glass has a much higher X-ray absorption coefficient and hence is useful in radiation shielding TV tubes, etc. Leaded glass is also used in electrical and electronic devices for its relatively low specific electrical conductivity and dielectric losses. Use of lead compounds in glazing has a considerably long history. It is used in glaze formulations such as ceramics, tableware, floor tiles, porcelain and sanitary wares such as toilets, wash basins, etc. The use of lead compounds in ceramics is due to the properties such as low melting temperature, good compatibility with substratum material and good electrical properties.

Lead compounds have relatively lower cost. Some lead containing ceramics such as lead zirconate, lead titanate, etc. have piezo-electric properties. They find application in spark generators, sensors, electrical filters, etc.

2. Lead Alloys

Lead alloys find use for many purposes such as soldering, in bearings, in some bronzes (to reduce the melting point), pewter (which is used for ornaments and tablewares). The lead alloys are used to reduce the melting point and to increase the machineability of the alloy. Tin-lead alloy is used for soldering because of its low melting point and good flow characteristics. The bearings are used to provide low friction between the moving parts of the machine. Bearings made of lead based alloys have an advantage of good lubrication and also low cost. Lead is also used in some bronzes to lower the melting point and increase the machineability. Some modern copper, aluminium and steel alloys use small additions of lead to improve machineability.

SECTION IV – ABOUT THE COMPANY

OUR INDUSTRY

History & Occurrence

Humans have used lead for at least 7,000 years mainly because deposits containing lead are widespread and it is easy to extract and work with. Lead was mentioned in the book of Exodus. Alchemists thought that lead was the oldest metal and associated it with the planet Saturn. Lead pipes bearing the insignia of Roman emperors are symbol in service today in some countries. Lead's symbol Pb is an abbreviation of its Latin name plumbum.

Worldwide, the lead and zinc deposits invariably occur together. Very few deposits contain either lead or zinc as single metal. The main lead mineral is galena (PbS). Other common varieties include cerussite (PbCO₃) and anglesite (PbSO₄).

Properties of Lead

Lead is a bright luster, dense, ductile, very soft and highly malleable bluish-white metal which can be toughened by adding a small amount of antimony or other metals to it. As a heavy, malleable metal, lead is one of the most resistant to common corrosion problems. It is a naturally occurring element and is usually associated with other minerals, notably zinc, silver and copper. Trace amounts of other elements, including gold, are sometimes found with lead ore. The ore is mined, concentrated and then smelted in a blast furnace with limestone and coke. It is refined to remove and recover other metals.

Lead has some important properties, in particular malleability (i.e. it can be hammered into shape), ease of production, ease of melting and joining, and good corrosion resistance. As a result, it has been used for purposes such as roofing, windows, piping, kitchen/tableware and ornamental uses for many centuries. The electrochemical properties of lead enable it to be used in storage batteries in all motor vehicles, and for some back-up power supplies.

Process

Beneficiation

Beneficiation of lead and zinc ore is a very complex process as it involves separation of lead concentrates and zinc concentrates which have to be effectively treated in different smelters to win both the metals separately.

The process of beneficiation of lead ore to produce concentrates involves following processes:

7. Crushing

Run-of-mine ore (ROM) is crushed in 3 stages namely, primary, secondary, and tertiary. Primary crushing is done by jaw crusher or gyratory crusher. Cone crushers are used in secondary crushing. Sometimes reduced gyratory crushers are also used. Tertiary crushing is done by short head cone crusher.

8. Grinding & Classification

The grinding of ore is to be done precisely because overgrinding of ore will result the galena ore into slimy particles. The slimy galena ore particles may result into low recovery of lead metal. Grinding of crushed ore is achieved by ball mills in closed circuit with spiral classifiers or cyclones. Some of the flotation reagents are added at the time of grinding. The final product of grinding and classification is in the form of slurry of finely ground material.

9. Conditioning

This is the process adopted to separate the lead ore from the complex ore. The finely ground ore in the form of slurry contains sulphide minerals like sphalerite, galena, pyrite and pyrrhotite. Iron oxides, silica, dolomite, carbonaceous material and graphitic material are also present as gangue minerals. The precious metals like gold, silver etc. are also present. Proper conditioning of the material is required to separate these constituents by selective flotation. To achieve this, the reagents like selective depressants, activators, collectors and frothers are used.

10. Flotation

Flotation is carried out in flotation chambers which have impellers and arrangement to supply air bubbles. In lead flotation chambers, rougher lead floatation and cleaner lead flotation are carried out. The chemical reagents used are modifiers, dispersants, activators, collectors and frothers.

11. Thickening, Filtration, Drying & Tailing Disposal

The concentrates of lead thus separated are thickened in thickeners and filtered in filters. Both these processes reduce the water content of the concentrate and recover the water for re-use. The tailings are subjected to cycloning to recover solids in a cyclone. The over-flow of cyclone is sent to thickeners and the tailings from the cyclone are sent to tailing dam. The tailing water can be reused after some necessary treatment before sending to tailing dam.

Smelting

Smelting is a process by which lead concentrate is treated to produce lead metal. There are two types of smelting processes: (1) Pyrometallurgical process and (2) Hydrometallurgical process. The process adopted depends upon the type of ore used as a charge.

(Source: Market Survey on Lead & Zinc – Indian Bureau of Mines)

Pyrometallurgical Process:

The conventional Pyrometallurgical process for production of primary lead is carried out in 4 steps:

1. Sintering

The main feed for sintering process is the lead concentrates. Other materials such as iron, silica, limestone flux, coke, etc. are added to the sintering machine. The sinters are made out of the mixture of lead concentrate along with flux and other required material.

2. Smelting

The sinters are then fed to a blast furnace with a blast of hot air or oxygen. The lead metal thus produced is in molten stage. The molten lead being heavy, settles at the bottom of the furnace. The other layers are speiss, which contains the lightest material like arsenic and antimony. The 'matte' contains copper sulphide and other metal sulphides and blast furnace slag which comprise silicates. The heaviest layer which contains 98% lead by weight is known as lead bullion.

3. Drossing

The rough lead bullion obtained from blast furnace requires preliminary treatment before refining. This treatment is known as drossing. During drossing, the molten lead bullion is agitated in a drossing kettle and cooled to a temperature just above its freezing point (at 370°C to 425°C). The dross floats at top which is composed of lead oxide along with copper, antimony and other elements. The dross solidifies above the molten lead, which is removed and fed to a dross furnace for recovery of other metals.

4. Refining

The lead bullion is subjected to Pyrometallurgical process to remove non-lead materials such as gold, silver, bismuth, zinc and oxides of metal such as antimony, arsenic, tin and copper. The refining is done in cast iron kettles in four stages.

- In the first stage, antimony, tin and arsenic are removed. For this, the molten lead is churned with oxidising agent such as molten sodium hydroxide or sodium nitrate for few hours.
- In the next stage, gold and silver are removed from molten lead with the help of zinc. The molten lead is heated with zinc. The precious metals i.e. gold and silver form an alloy with zinc which is then allowed to solidify which floats at the top and can be removed.
- The only impurity that may be left now is bismuth. Bismuth can be removed by electrolytic process. Alternatively, bismuth can be removed by production of stoichiometric CaMg_2Bi_2 compound by adding calcium and magnesium as an alloy or individual metals, crystals and removed by skimming.
- The purity of the refined lead obtained by this process is 99.90% to 99.99%.

The Pyrometallurgical process has a major advantage that it incurs low cost as electricity consumption is less. But the fumes of lead and sulphur pose environmental problems. The level of purity of lead produced is low.

(Source: Market Survey on Lead & Zinc – Indian Bureau of Mines)

Hydrometallurgical Processes:

These processes are also known as electrolytic processes. The main principle behind these processes is that the anodes of impure lead (lead bullion) are dissolved in an electrolyte and pure lead is deposited on cathode. The most important and largely adopted process amongst these is 'Betts Process'. This process is adopted after smelting and copper is removed from the lead bullion followed by softening. In the Betts process, large cast anodes (about 1 sq m) of lead bullion from which copper is already removed are used. Thin starter sheets of high purity lead are used as cathodes on which newly refined lead particles are deposited. Fluosilicate acid is used as an electrolyte. When an electric current is passed through the electrolyte, the lead is deposited on cathode. Impurities in lead like bismuth, antimony, arsenic, gold and silver remain as anode slime which is treated separately to recover these metals.

(Source: Market Survey on Lead & Zinc – Indian Bureau of Mines)

There are few advantages of the hydrometallurgical (electrolytic) process over the conventional Pyrometallurgical process. Firstly, the lead obtained by the electrolytic process has higher degree of purity.

Secondly, any bismuth if present is effectively removed. As high temperature is not required, dust fumes are also not evolved.

Products of Lead

1. Lead Compounds

Many compounds of lead are strongly colored and highly durable. These properties of lead compounds make them useful in paint and pigments. White lead or basic lead carbonate is an intimate mixture of lead carbonate and lead hydroxide or lead oxide. It is very durable and has good external weathering properties and hence used in paints and pigments.

The oxides of lead are mainly used as additives in glass and PVC. Red lead was historically used in paints and anticorrosive pigment in antirust primers used for protection of steelworks.

Another important lead compound is basic lead silicate which is used in cathodic electro position primers for motor vehicles. Lead compounds are also used as stabilizers in PVC. All thermoplastics (plastics which soften on heating) require small amount of additives which are known as stabilizers to prevent degradation of the material.

Lead oxide is added to glasses and glazes. The main advantage of addition of lead oxide is reduction in melting point. Addition of lead compounds to silica based glass can reduce the softening temperature considerably. Moreover, leaded glass gives more attractive and sparkling appearance. This is useful in optical glass used in binoculars, microscopes and spectacles. Leaded glass has a much higher X-ray absorption coefficient and hence is useful in radiation shielding TV tubes, etc. Leaded glass is also used in electrical and electronic devices for its relatively low specific electrical conductivity and dielectric losses. Use of lead compounds in glazing has a considerably long history. It is used in glaze formulations such as ceramics, tableware, floor tiles, porcelain and sanitary wares such as toilets, wash basins, etc. The use of lead compounds in ceramics is due to the properties such as low melting temperature, good compatibility with substratum material and good electrical properties.

Lead compounds have relatively lower cost. Some lead containing ceramics such as lead zirconate, lead titanate, etc. have piezo-electric properties. They find application in spark generators, sensors, electrical filters, etc.

2. Lead Alloys

Lead alloys find use for many purposes such as soldering, in bearings, in some bronzes (to reduce the melting point), pewter (which is used for ornaments and tablewares). The lead alloys are used to reduce the melting point and to increase the machineability of the alloy. Tin-lead alloy is used for soldering because of its low melting point and good flow characteristics. The bearings are used to provide low friction between the moving parts of the machine. Bearings made of lead based alloys have an advantage of good lubrication and also low cost. Lead is also used in some bronzes to lower the melting point and increase the machineability. Some modern copper, aluminium and steel alloys use small additions of lead to improve machineability.

India is endowed with large resources of lead and zinc which are distributed over 12 states namely: Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Gujarat, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Meghalaya, Orissa, Rajasthan, Sikkim, Tamil Nadu, Uttarakhand and West Bengal.

(Source: Market Survey on Lead & Zinc – Indian Bureau of Mines)

Lead Production

While it has a high economic value, lead is relatively economical to produce. As with all metals, there are two main production routes. Primary production from mined lead ore is of course the original source of all lead, but secondary production, where it is recovered from recycled products or from residues arising from the production process is of enormous importance. Secondary lead production now accounts for more than half of all lead produced throughout the world. In the US more than 80% of lead comes from secondary production with Europe reporting over 60%. These impressive figures are made possible by the fact that most lead is used in readily recyclable applications. And unlike many recycled materials, the value of lead means that recycling is economically viable and hence self-sustainable.

(Source: Indian Minerals Yearbook 2011)

Lead Recycling

Lead enjoys one of the highest recycling rates of all materials in common use today. This is a result of its fundamental properties, good design and the ways in which it is used, which make lead based products easily identifiable and economic to collect and recycle. As a result, over half of the lead produced and used each year throughout the world has been used before in other products. What is more, because lead is a naturally occurring element, the quality of the recycled lead is identical to that of primary metal from mining.

The use of lead has evolved over the years, with a significant growth in recyclable uses. Today about 80% of lead is used in lead acid batteries, all of which are recoverable and recyclable. Some countries boast a 100% recycling rate – and most others share the possibility of 100% recyclability. A further 6% of lead is used in the form of lead sheet by the building industry. Together with a number of other smaller volume metallic applications such as radiation shielding, cable sheathing and various specialized applications, such as earthquake dampers, about 90% of all lead is used in readily recyclable products – and almost all of it is recycled – conserving precious ore reserves for future generations.

Lead recycling brings advantages to industry and society in areas such as energy consumption, reduced carbon emissions, resource conservation, employment and costs. For instance, the recycling of used lead products requires only about one third of the energy needed to produce lead from its ores, resulting in major energy savings and fewer carbon emissions. It's therefore not surprising that recycling is a very attractive option for everyone, and a valuable contribution to sustainability.

Lead Consumption

Lead is integral to our modern lifestyle. Whilst its malleability and corrosion resistance still make it useful for roof flashings and cladding, the main benefits are derived from harnessing lead's chemical properties.

The principal consumption of lead is for lead-acid batteries which are used in vehicles, and in emergency systems (e.g. hospitals) as well as in industrial batteries found in computers and fork lift trucks. Lead acid batteries are the mainstay of storage technologies for renewable energy sources, such as solar cell and wind turbines and are used to power cars, trucks, buses, motorbikes, electric vehicles and hybrid vehicles. Furthermore, lead acid batteries are vital as a back-up emergency power supply in case of mains power failure in hospitals, telephone exchanges, mobile phone networks, public buildings and for the emergency services. Lead is also used in remote access power systems and load leveling systems as well as in compounds in the glass and plastics industries and for radiation shielding.

Lead's incredible density provides unrivalled protection from radiation and is essential to staff working in hospitals, dental surgeries, laboratories and nuclear installations. Lead stabilizers are added to some PVC products to improve durability, and the metal protects thousands of kilometers of underwater power and communications cables.

(Source: <http://www.ila-lead.org/lead-facts/lead-uses>)

The battery industry consumes about 74% of lead followed by pigments and compounds 9%, rolled and extruded products 8%, alloys 3%, cable sheathing 2% and the balance 4% is consumed by other industries.

Battery Industry

Lead Acid Storage Batteries is an electro-chemical system that converts electrical energy into direct current electricity. It is also known as storage batteries and has wide applications in Automobiles, UPS/Inverters, Traction/Electrical Sub-Station, Telecommunication, Solar Photovoltaic system etc. It can be charged electrically to provide a static potential for power or release electrical charge when needed.

Types of Batteries

The basic types of lead batteries are:

- Flooded/ Vented Lead Acid group batteries are all “open”, allowing gas to escape without any positive pressure building up in the cells. They can be topped up when required and are therefore more tolerant to high temperature operation and over charging. The free electrolyte also facilitates cooling of the battery.
- Sealed Lead Acid group batteries, also known as maintenance free batteries, are sealed with a pressure release valve, which limits the escape of gas to above the release pressure. Hence it is also called “Valve Regulated Lead Acid”, or VRLA for short. The electrolyte is immobilized to prevent spillage and facilitate gas recombination within the battery. These batteries are usually more compact in size than vented lead acid batteries and typically used in areas where ventilation is insufficient to accommodate vented batteries. They cannot be topped up and are more susceptible to failure due to high temperature than vented lead acid batteries.

Manufacturing Process

Lead Acid Batteries consists of positive electrodes (called positive plates) of Lead peroxide and negative electrodes (called negative plates) of highly porous spongy Lead. The electrolyte is dilute Sulphuric Acid in the Specific Gravity Range of 1.2 to 1.3 (28%-38% by weight). The positive and negative plates are insulated by means of Synthetic sheet (Pouch/ Envelop) called Separator, which allows the free movement of electrons between plates, while avoiding short circuit of positive and negative electrodes (plates).

Lead Antimony Alloy

Grid Casting Machine

Lead Oxide

Grid Panels

Paste Mixing in Paste Mixer

Lead Oxide Paste

Grid Panels

Automotive Pasting Machine

Paste Grid Panels

Curing and Drying Chamber

Cured and Dried Plates

Plate Formation with Direct Current Rectifier

The container is sealed with lid by heat sealing machine at controlled atmosphere

Sealing Quality of container and cover is checked by passing compressed air and tested for air leak

Positive and Negative Terminal posts are built using terminal post builder

World Scenario

Lead Acid Battery Industry has seen significant growth in the last few years. Worldwide, primary and secondary battery demand is projected to rise at a nearly 7 percent annual pace. Currently, U.S. is leading the world in the battery market. China, recording the largest gains of any national market, stimulated by healthy economic growth, ongoing industrialization efforts and rising per capita income will surpass the U.S. to become the largest battery market in the world. Sales increases are also expected to be strong in India, Indonesia, South Korea, Poland, South Africa, Brazil and Russia for similar reasons.

Indian Scenario

The total battery market in India is approx. worth Rs 25,000 crores out of which the share of organized sector is 60% and unorganized sector is 40%. The share of the Organized Sector is increasing with each passing year and with the GST regime, which integrates the Country fiscally the rate of this shift from un-organized to organized is going to be even more pronounced. Of the Rs 15000 Cr around 40% share is of two big players viz Exide and Amaron in the market. As this market has very oligopolistic character, it leaves the space open for a quality and niche player.

In the summer season when the power outages become rampant, the demand for larger Batteries used in inverters become very high and that is the time there is shortage of lead and no company can cater to the overall off the shelf demand for batteries. This chronic shortage of batteries in small towns has given rise to a large number of local and at times un-organized players.

The domestic lead storage battery industry comprises two main segments: Automotive and Industrial batteries. Storage batteries are basically used as a secondary source of power in vehicles and industrial applications. Automotive batteries account for 60% of the total market while industrial batteries contribute the rest. The unorganized sector in overall terms has a market share of 40% out of Rs 250 billion market.

The segments, be it Four-Wheelers, Two wheelers and inverters are all witnessing a compound annualized growth of 15-20%. The Automobile industry can be subdivided into the OEM and Retail or Replacement markets. The Industrial batteries market can be broken up into the infrastructure market (railways, telecom and power), submarine batteries and fast-moving industrial batteries (UPS and inverters).

(Source: Management representation)

Sales of automotive batteries were severely affected due to an unprecedented slowdown in the automobile industry. Growth in production and sales of total vehicles during 2011-12 was around 1% each as compared to the previous year. The major reasons for the dismal performance can be attributed to inflationary pressures, rise in fuel prices, high cost of borrowing, adverse foreign exchange rate, some industrial unrest and above all an overall negative sentiment.

Foreign Trade

Lead is the fourth important non ferrous metal traded worldwide.

Export

Exports of lead from the country are in the form of ore and concentrates, lead alloys and scrap, lead waste and scrap, lead unrefined, refined lead unwrought, pig lead, lead and alloys worked and others. Exports of lead ores and concentrate increased sharply to 122,200 tonnes in 2010-11 as compared to 36,476 tonnes in the previous year. China was the single largest importer accounting for almost the entire quantity. Exports of lead and alloys & scrap also increased to 161,430 tonnes during 2010-11 as compared to 53,779 tonnes in the preceding year. Almost entire exports were of lead & alloys while those of scrap were nominal. China accounting for 71% of exports was followed by Rep. of Korea (14%) and Indonesia (6%) as the major destinations in 2010-11.

Demand Drivers

- Batteries: Lead, presently is not substituted by any other metal in the production of lead acid batteries, which are vital for automobiles eventually driving the lead industry forward in near future.
 - Lead acid battery is used as power back-up especially in power deficient countries. Lead batteries are finding newer applications such as inverter battery, battery operated mopeds, battery operated cars, battery operated forklifts, and even mass transport vehicles especially where there is a concern for cleaner atmosphere.
 - Now-a-days battery operated small vehicles are used in railway stations and airports, for carrying luggage as well as passengers for short distances and big industries.
 - Lead calcium alloys are used in the manufacture of “maintenance free” batteries also known as VRLA (Valve Regulated Lead Acid) batteries. Calcium addition enhances the performance and life of the batteries. VRLA batteries are preferred in critical applications like telecom, railways, power etc. because of the inherent advantages.
- Lead Recycling: Lead when used as metal in batteries, cable sheathing and sheathing for containing radiation is fully recyclable without losing its properties. Therefore, there is a thriving industry of lead recycling in the country.
- Ammunition Uses: Lead is widely used in shot and other weapons. Pure lead maintains the uniformity and lack of brittleness (molecular cohesion) that has always made it an ideal bullet material driving the demand for lead.

Challenges

- Battery Substitutes:
 - Battery replacements include batteries of nickel-zinc, zinc lithium chloride, sulphide or nickel lithium hydride. The large-scale commercial use of any of these four possible substitutes was so far precluded by cost and operating problems.
 - Polyethylene and other materials work as substitute in some cable applications. Storage batteries for industrial load leveling, mains power management and electric vehicles have growing markets. The continued search for weight reduction is reducing the amount of lead per battery, and battery lives are being extended thereby creating a drag in lead batteries.

- Substitutes in Construction Applications: A number of substitutes in the construction industry can act as a good challenge for the lead industry. In place of galvanized sheets, copper and aluminium are alternatives. In corrosive chemical environment, stainless steel, titanium, plastics and cements are substitutes. Tin, glass, plastics and aluminium are alternatives in tubes and containers, iron & steel or bismuth in shots for ammunition, and tin in solder.
- Lead-free solders: In electronic industry, there has been a move towards lead-free solders with varying compositions of tin, bismuth, silver and copper thereby reducing the usage of lead.
- Environmental Concerns: Environmental concerns for lead are limiting the uses, particularly in gasoline, where its use as antiknock was phased out by the introduction of catalytic converters. Possible new developments include the use of lead as an antioxidant in asphalt, as a shielding material in nuclear waste, in protection of buildings against radon gases and as a sound buffer. Environmental legislation will inhibit the growth of new uses and possibly eliminate lead from many existing uses. Recycling of lead through environmentally safe processes needs to be encouraged as the growing use of lead in railway electrification as well as in road transport and agriculture sectors has created shortage in country.
- Lead Price: The price of lead is extremely volatile and therefore has a major impact on the costs.

Future Outlook

1. Lead is an important metal used in making lead acid batteries (LAB). India’s requirement of lead is met through imports. The demand of lead in India is also increasing owing to the growth in automobile sector and consequently in lead acid batteries.
2. The battery industry is growing with a rapid pace mainly due to the increase in the production of all types of vehicles as well as more and more storage batteries are used as power backups. One more aspect added in the demand of batteries is the cleaner fuel for vehicles which are used in the places where pollution is to be kept at the minimum. Moreover development of hybrid type of electric vehicles demands more and more storage batteries.
3. Consumption of industrial batteries is going up as the economy is bottoming out. This will create opportunities for supply of industrial batteries in the telecom towers, railway usage and in the power sector. With the country short of power in several pockets, usage of inverters too, has gone up significantly, which will not be coming down soon.
4. With the growth in the automotive, information & communication technology and infrastructure sectors, the demand for lead is poised to increase and sustain in future. It is expected that down-stream industry development, improvement in standard of living and consumer awareness is set to further increase the demand of lead in the forthcoming years.

The Lead Demand and Supply during the 12th Five Year Plan would be (tonnes):

Year	Lead Demand	Lead Supply
2012-13	433000	185000
2013-14	464000	185000
2014-15	496000	185000

5. Future Demand of Lead for Production of Storage Batteries
(Base Year 2009-10 battery production 509.30 lakh nos.)

Lead Demand (Tonnes)	919,496	1,242,139	1,677,985	2,134,452

(Source: Market Survey on Lead & Zinc – Indian Bureau of Mines)

6. Nearly 50% of the estimated all India resource is low grade (<5% grade) and are currently not mined. To make these low grade deposits as economically viable mining projects, special relaxation in royalty and taxation need to be considered.
7. With the advent of computers, lead batteries find a wider usage in the UPS (Uninterrupted Power Supply) systems. With the huge demand – supply gaps in the power scenario, power cuts are very common and lead batteries are a source of stored energy through inverters.
8. On the basis of region wise growth there will be a huge demand of about 32 million tonnes of refined lead in 2025 in the entire world and the major consuming region will be Asia where the demand will be about 29 million tonnes.

BUSINESS STRATEGY

After studying the market growth for batteries for domestic and Industrial use, our company has decided to venture into manufacture of Batteries under both its own brand name and also undertake projects of OEM and third Party manufacture. The company will be manufacturing Lead Acid Batteries with low maintenance characteristics for Automotive, Inverters, UPS and solar applications both in Tubular and Flat Plates. Our mission is to carry out manufacturing & recycling activities using advanced technologies which conserve the natural resources and protect the Environment, Health and Safety of the persons involved. The technical know-how would help the company to produce quality Batteries to meet customer requirements in line with already established Battery brands in the market. The Power Storage Lead Acid Batteries manufactured by the company will be used in Stationary applications such as Inverters, UPS. The company proposes to install a wide range of Machines to cater to a capacity of 300,000 Batteries p.a. The total cost of the plant & machinery is estimated at Rs. 671.34 Lacs. The establishment of factory for production of batteries is in full swing and we expect our commercial production to be commenced from July 2014 onwards. In our constant quest to use cleaner sources of energy in a cost effective manner, our company is also planning to install Solar Panels to augment its energy supply. We also are going to manufacture both Solar and e-rickshaw batteries which are the growth area in the battery market. There is a bright scope for exports to a large number of markets in Asia and Europe where the battery production has declined owing to stricter pollution norms. We are committed to constantly upgrade our products by continuous Indigenous Research & also by absorption of available technologies from overseas sources.

COMPETITION

The battery market is only controlled by two-three large players which leave room for a regional player offering superior contact and service to the channel partners with a quality product a good possibility. The entry barriers in the Industry to put up a decent plant are rising as the small plants find it difficult to come up consistently with a product giving longevity and quality assurance. With Lead Prices high and volatile, the hand casting and pasting models of battery grids is becoming economically non-feasible and quality wise suspect. Hence a good production facility runs with process and quality consciousness will do well. Volatility of Lead prices however will continue to remain challenging and will call for innovative and pro-active hedging measures. Improving power availability will affect future inverter sales adversely and this will also affect the inverter battery replacement market. With the growth in the automotive, information & communication technology and infrastructure sectors, the demand for lead is poised to increase and sustain in future. Expansion of Solar energy and e-rickshaws will also provide the fillip. It is expected that down-stream industrial development, improvement in standard of living and consumer awareness is set to further increase the demand for secondary power derived from lead acid batteries in the coming years.

MARKETING

Lead Acid Battery Industry has seen huge evolution in the last decade. Worldwide primary and secondary battery demand is projected to rise at a nearly 7 percent annual pace. Sales increases are also expected to be strong in India. The Indian Lead Acid battery industry is poised to more than double before end of this decade given the current rate of growth of over 25 per cent per annum. This being the case, the aftermarket is definitely striking with its sheer size and is lucrative due to better price and credit realization. But what is significant is that the industrial batteries consumption is going up with the economy booming. This will create opportunities for supply of industrial batteries in the telecom towers, railway usage and in the power sector. In the first phase, the company plans to target the replacement market to satisfy the increasing demand from end users. In the second phase the company plans to move into the Industrial Batteries with an objective to cater OEM & Institutional demand. The marketing strategy of our company revolves round providing quality product to the customer with a very strong back –up of after sales services.
